July 4 Celebrated in Many Lands.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

AALBORG, Denmark, July 4.—More than 200 Chicagoans and other Americans, including Dr. Max Henius, Anton Kratz, A. K. Mose, H. Bisgaard, and Arthur Nebe, editor of a Danish paper in Omaha, and Consul General Beck assembled here with the relatives of many Danish immigrants to America to celebrate July 4. The fête was given by Dr. Henius, who read a message from Secretary of State Kellogg.

WARSAW, Poland, July 4.—United States Minister John B. Stetson Jr., who does not drink, fell off the wagon today in celebrating July 4. The minister's tipple was honey wine, made in the year that American independence was declared. It was "mead," the oldest alcoholic drink the world knows, and was served during Poland's celebration of American independence day.

The need ceremony was held in Puga's wine cellars, founded in 1620. After the minister had exchanged toasts with prominent members of the government, he was shown the bar bill of the Thaddeus Kosciuszko, who 145 years ago returned to Warsaw from America, where he had assisted in the revolution.

At the capital's big town hall the minister of Poland, Ignace Moscicki, president of the cabinet, the foreign minister, military attaches and representatives of all the governments assembled to greet the American minister and his wife and the American financial delegation, under Prof. Kemmerer, and the American colony members.

PARIS, July 4.—Independence day in France was marked by special services in the American churches and the annual pilgrimage to Lafayette's tomb, where Gen. Gouraud, military governor of Paris, spoke. Ambassador Wm. T. Herrick replied.

Another ceremony was held at the statue of Washington. Former Ambassador Jusserand and Col. Charles Dwyer, who organized the American volunteers to bomb the Rifians in Morocco, spoke. At sundown this evening a delegation from the American Legion solemnly lighted the flame at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

OSLO, Norway, July 4.—All Norway today celebrated America's 150th anniversary. Many papers carried copies of the Declaration of Independence as well as a historical sketch of the United States. The Oslo broadcasting station devoted its entire program to Uncle Sam's big day.

Minister received the Americans here this afternoon at the ministry. President Lytle spoke.

PRAGUE, July 4.—The Fourth of July celebration in Czechoslovakia was marked by the unfurling of Old Glory atop of Petrin mountain near the American legation at Sokol station. A meeting in a packed hall on Zofien street was addressed by Lewis E. Egan, John A. Cervenka, city treasurer of Chicago, Joseph Plavec of Chicago, a member of the Illinois legislature, and Foreign Minister Benes. Mr. Cervenka said he and thousands of his countrymen who emigrated to the United States are examples of what America offers the man without any special schooling, without friends, and without influence.

Argentine Children Recite Exercises.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Buenos Aires, July 4.—(AP)—Special exercises were held yesterday in the Buenos Aires public school known as "Escuelas Unidos" in commemoration of American Independence day. They were largely attended by the Argentine colony. The Argentine government in 1923 dedicated the school in honor of the United States.

Australians Toast U. S. in Champagne.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SYDNEY, July 4.—American Independence day was celebrated in Sydney by a dinner dance. The guests toiled away with champagne. There was no reception by the consul, as the holiday fell on Sunday.

CALLES FORBIDS MONK AND NUN; POPE PROTESTS

Propaganda Barred by New Edict.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Mexico City, July 4.—The government just has issued a new decree regulating the Mexican press. While affirming the inviolability of the press, the decree muzzles the denominational and religious press, forbidding it to handle news relative to the government or government employees or to comment on the policy or action of the same.

The decree consists of thirty-six articles. Article thirteen, which is fatal for the press, says: "All religious publications of a periodical nature or having a denominational tendency indicated by title or program are forbidden to comment on political or national affairs or to supply information concerning acts or authorities of the nation or individuals directly connected with the functioning of public institutions."

Expulsion for Aliens.

This is taken, with other parts of the decree, to provide an effective means of stopping Catholic propaganda. Heavy fines and imprisonment and, in the case of foreigners, expulsion from the country are provided for violations.

None except Mexican born can become priests or ministers. All education must be lay. Monasteries, nunneries, and religious orders are prohibited. The heads of organizations established in defiance of the law are held responsible, being threatened with six years' imprisonment and heavy fines, both for men and women. Priests or members of a religious order or denomination inciting opposition to law and order or heading a mob are subject to the same punishment. Even criticism in churches or religious meetings subjects the offender to five years' imprisonment and a fine.

Penalties for Politicians.

Religious denominations are prohibited from forming political unions or parties under threats of fines and imprisonment for the leaders and other proven offenders. This provision effectively kills religious unions for political ends and the hope of the Catholics for effecting by the election of members to congress the reform of the anti-Catholic laws.

Without the power of organization politically or through the press to express and voice church matters, the Catholics are tied hand and foot in political activities. The idea behind the anti-Catholic parts of the decree is expressed in the statement, "The government is not disposed to permit the establishment of orders taking vows and imparting instruction which would trammel the free use of man's faculties."

The government party apparently is determined to prevent the Catholics from becoming a political factor or trying to elect members to congress pledged to oppose the plans and program of the revolutionary party.

Catholics Play Fight.

The decree has created intense excitement in Catholic circles throughout Mexico.

Catholic dignitaries have called a meeting of Catholic authorities for tomorrow to consider means of securing derogation of the decree, which is characterized as unconstitutional. They have been communicating with Catholic centers of the Mexican states, urging union of action in the face of the impending danger of disruption of Catholic solidarity.

All Catholic societies and interests in the city will be represented at the meeting tomorrow and it is reported that the same action will be taken in other Catholic centers throughout the republic.

In Open Conflict.

The ecclesiastical and civil authorities are in open conflict, since the constitution and the laws provide for registration of priests and the ecclesiastical law prohibits the recognition of the right of any civil authority to interfere with the management of discipline through registration of the priests.

A prominent Catholic said, "All

Ten Injured Here in July 4 Accidents

AMENDING THE DECLARATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Mother of 5, Left Destitute, Takes Poison

Despondent because of a recent divorce and the resulting separation from her five little children, Mrs. Flora Newcomer, 32 years old, who tried to end her life Saturday night by taking sleeping tablets in Lincoln park, yesterday revealed the recent tragic chapters of her life as she lay recovering at Columbus hospital.

Mrs. Newcomer, who is the daughter of the late Judge Ralph Eaton of Mount Carroll, Ill., and the niece of ex-Congressman John McKensie, divorced her husband, Floyd Newcomer, 26 years old, six weeks ago, charging cruelty. Their home was at 4025 Kedvale avenue.

Destitute After Divorce.

Newcomer, well-to-do real estate salesman, was ordered by Judge Caverly to pay $100 a month for the support of the children, Mrs. Newcomer said.

He immediately fled to Seattle to avoid paying the alimony and Mrs. Newcomer, penniless and alone, was forced to send three of the children to her sister-in-law, Miss Maud Newcomer, editor of the Brethren Publishing company at Elgin, Ill. The other two children she sent to her own sisters in Peoria and Mount Carroll.

Repeated efforts to communicate with her children in Elgin were unsuccessful, Mrs. Newcomer said. She tried in vain to get them back when she could no longer bear the separation. Finally she told all her troubles to a friend, Mrs. George Meisterheim, 4223 Elston avenue, where she stayed until late Saturday night.

She went directly to a drug store and purchased the poison which she later took in front of the Lincoln park police station. Mrs. Newcomer was divorced once before from Newcomer because of his cruelty, but returned to him for the sake of the children.

COMB COUNTRY FOR 2 ESCAPED JOLIET CONVICTS

Poses and police in northern Illinois are combing the country for Ray Palmer and Raymond Sickle, convicts, who, after slugging a guard at the Stateville prison, escaped. They are believed to be on their way to Chicago. The Chicago police were asked to be on the lookout for the men. The homes of several of their friends are being watched.

Harry Davis, said to be a Chicagoan, was released yesterday from the West Chicago jail after being questioned by E. C. Ashley of Joliet, in charge of a detail searching for the two convicts. It was first reported that Davis aided the men in their escape.

BODY OF MICHELS FOUND IN RIVER; SUICIDE, VERDICT

Dragging the Fox river for Nicholas Michels resulted in the finding of the body of the former assistant corporation counsel and assistant state attorney, late yesterday afternoon. It was found on the river bottom within a stone's throw from the spot where a rowboat containing his hat and cane had been discovered floating last Friday morning.

The search had been on for three days when the body was brought to the surface.

Mr. Michels' daughter, Mrs. Elsie Schlueter, wife of a well known Chicago physician, was in Crystal Lake when the body was found and she was at once notified and hurried to make arrangements for the funeral.

A coroner's jury, called in session at 2:30 a. m. yesterday, returned a verdict of suicide committed while despondent over ill health. Mr. Michels was 65 years old.

Car Riders Save Woman From Death Leap Into River

Passengers leaped from a surface car at Cortland street and the river last night and prevented Mrs. Laura Boggs, 41 years old, 3529 Dearborn avenue, from committing suicide by drowning. She had climbed to the railing of the bridge and was about to plunge into the water when the passengers reached her. She was taken to the West Chicago avenue police station where she said she was despondent because of a quarrel with her husband.

Men's Bible Class Jury.

The church was packed to the galleries and the men's Bible class, taught by E. B. Ferguson, an attorney, acted as the jury, with Claude Porter, opponent of Col. Smith W. Brookhart in the United States senatorial race, presiding as judge.

The indictment against Moses was read, charging him with first degree murder of an Egyptian near the city of Thebes.

Evidence of Premeditation.

The prosecuting attorney, C. R. Barnes, who made the first statement, insisted that Moses premeditated the slaying when he looked around to see if any one was watching before he slew the Egyptian. Barnes argued also that religious insanity was not a factor in the slaying.

D. L. Wilson, defense attorney, said the Hebrew killed the Egyptian accidentally when Moses went to the door of an aged, harmless Israelite whom the Egyptian was beating. The slaying was also considered from the viewpoint of being the will of God. Both lawyers quoted at length from the Bible.

There was some question as to what evidence should be allowed and whether the Egyptian was killed or fell dead as an act of God to put Moses through an ordeal to give him strength to be the leader of his people.

One Killed, 3 Wounded in Kentucky Still Raid

Hyden, Ky., July 4.—(AP)—As the result of a still raid on Mugger's Creek, near here, Henry Howard is dead, two of his kinsmen and Sheriff George W. Revis are critically wounded, and further trouble is feared in the neighborhood, as armed partisans of Howard and the sheriff are on their way to the scene of the trouble.

Stray Shots Strike Six; Two May Die

[Fourth of July celebrations were general over Cook county. Details of the principal events are reported on page 3.]

Despite the fact that ten persons, two of whom may die and two lose eyes, were reported injured, Chicago yesterday probably celebrated its safest and sanest Fourth of July.

Police pointed to their records as evidence of this, there being no actual fatalities this year, while a year ago five lost their lives as the direct results of the day's celebrations.

The most seriously injured and the one whom physicians at St. Joseph's hospital said might die is Mrs. Barbara Rotapor and the police were investigating the case. She was struck in the head, presumably by a stray bullet, as she rode in an automobile at Diversey parkway and Halsted street, with Joseph Krizatz, 214 West 25th place.

Says Woman Asked for Ride.

Krizatz told the police Mrs. Rotapor lives at 1930 Mohawk street and that he met her at Ogden and Western avenues, where she asked him for a ride. He said he was driving along slowly at Diversey and Halsted when she suddenly screamed and fell against him.

There was a bullet hole through the back curtains of Krizatz's car. Police started a search for a Negro who had been reported in the neighborhood for several hours shooting a revolver with which he had broken several windows.

Maxwell street police are investigating the possibly fatal shooting of Joseph Gallier, 14 years old, 724 South May street, who was hit by a stray bullet as he stood on the rear porch of his home.

The two who may lose an eye are Julius Desideri, 717 Beese street, and Joseph Langlion, 57 years old, hardware merchant of Kankakee, Ill. The latter visiting at the home of James Sheridan, 910 Oak Park avenue, Oak Park, was struck in the left eye by a stone from a torpedo set off by boys.

Hit by Torpedo Fragment.

Desideri was struck in the right eye by a fragment from a torpedo while driving through Evanston last night with his wife and other relatives. He was taken to St. Francis hospital. The torpedo was tossed on the sidewalk by Raymond Decker, 15 years old, 1719 Hartney street, Evanston.

The other accidents were not serious. Pasquale Ingrata, 35, 9226 Avenue M, was struck in the right shoulder by a stray bullet while walking at 96th street and Avenue N. Kenneth Beamsder, 10, was slightly injured by a stray bullet which he stood on the sidewalk at Lawrence avenue station of the Metropolitan elevated.

Lula Cable, colored, was shot and seriously wounded by Andrew Smith, also colored, of Phoenix, who fired through a wall while a celebration was being held in her home at 15721 Vine avenue, Harvey.

Others Slightly Injured.

Mrs. Anna Wright, 4222 1/2 Sheridan road, was struck by a fragment of a bullet or stone while standing at Sheridan road and Crescent place. She told police a man leaped out of an automobile, fired the revolver into the ground near by, and then fled.

Michale Regiro, 1114 Washburne avenue, was struck by a stray bullet while walking in Vernon park. He told the police who encountered him on the way to a hospital that he was in the park when he fired off an antiquated revolver, which exploded, in his back yard.

Not Ashamed of G. O. P. Record.

But when it comes to the election the President proposes to get into the fight up to the eyebrows. He believes the Republicans have a good case, that they have nothing to be ashamed of, that they have a record to be proud of. The President has no patience with Republicans who regard the party as on the defensive, if not on the run, as a result of the clash between the administration and the corn belt.

The President believes that the prevailing prosperity of the country is due largely to the wise policies of national administration under the Republican regime since 1921 and that it can be demonstrated to the country that it needs to keep the Republican party in power if it is satisfied with present conditions and wants to maintain them unimpaired. Those policies include the protective tariff law reduction, retrenchment in government expenditures and settlement of the war debts.

COOLIDGE LAYS PLANS TO CARRY FIGHT TO PUBLIC

To Make Aggressive Battle in Fall.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 4.—(Special.)—President Coolidge is going to fight. He is going to carry his cause to the people in the November election, seeking popular endorsement of his administration.

With the Democrats already endeavoring to capitalize Republican disaffection in the corn belt arising from the failure of the Haugen farm relief bill, and to take advantage of popular revulsion at Republican primary slush fund scandals, the President, it became known today, is preparing as leader of his party to rally the Republicans to an aggressive battle for retention of the control of congress.

On the Alert During Vacation.

At recent conferences with National Chairman Butler and the chairmen of the Republican senatorial and congressional campaign committees the President mapped out the plan of campaign and outlined the basis for the appeal which he believes the Republican party is justified in making to the people to continue it in power in the legislative branch of the government.

It was indicated that the president would continue to keep in close touch with the progress of the campaign while he is sojourning in the Adirondacks and that he probably would request the party leaders to meet him at White Pine camp, probably in August, for further consideration of plans.

Keeps Hands Off Primaries.

The President adheres to his resolution to hold aloof from primary contests. He deems it distinctly improper for either the President as titular leader of the party or for the campaign committees to take sides in a contest between Republicans for nomination to the senate or house. For that reason he has rigidly refused to aid even those Republican senators, like McKimley of Illinois, who voted for the world court and did so chiefly to support the President's stand.

Two of his cabinet, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Labor Davis, interposed in the Pennsylvania primary in aid of Senator Pepper but they did so as Pennsylvanians without consulting the President. Likewise Attorney General Sargent is now opposing the renomination of Senator Dale in Vermont but the White House insists that the President himself is keeping hands off.

Not Ashamed of G. O. P. Record.

But when it comes to the election the President proposes to get into the fight up to the eyebrows. He believes the Republicans have a good case, that they have nothing to be ashamed of, that they have a record to be proud of. The President has no patience with Republicans who regard the party as on the defensive, if not on the run, as a result of the clash between the administration and the corn belt.

cession than is usual, and the President forced better than usual in getting his recommendations enacted into law. The outstanding achievements were the approval of the world court resolution, the reduction of taxes and the funding of the war debts, all of which he urged. And Democratic criticism of this record evokes only a smile from the President, who has not forgotten that the majority of the Democrats in congress supported all of these administrative measures.

Doubt, Farm Secession.
The only failure was that of the farm relief legislation advocated by the President. He realizes that there is division of the Republican party on that question, but he believes that his opposition to the corn belt plan for raising the price of farm products on the American market will be vindicated in time. That the farmers, because of the failure of the corn belt bill, are now going to secede from the protective tariff the President believes he has sound reason to doubt. It has been noted with satisfaction at the White House that the agricultural situation on what the farmer consumes are also advocating revision upward of duties on farm products. The farmer, it is contended, is suffering from competition with foreign importations, chiefly dairy products, which existing duties are not high enough to exclude.

Capper Thinks West Disgraced.
Senator Capper (Rep., Kas.) regards the White House attitude as entirely too complacent. He views the situation with alarm. "There is a well established feeling in the west," said Senator Capper to-night, "that the President, in his desire to apply sound business principles and practices to the business of government, has surrounded himself with the type of men who know or see little else; who underrate and pay scant attention to the rural people—to that much larger part of the United States that does not see things in this Pecksniffian way from the strictly financial and corporate viewpoint. Western farmers have begun to feel that the west's welfare and the farmer's interests are not being fully considered at Washington."

"Predatory Business Element."
"Right or wrong, this is the feeling. And it is not confined solely to the west. Unfortunately, too many corporations have thought that anything labeled 'business' can have whatever it demands at Washington. This is demonstrated in many new activities begun by the predatory element in American business. In something like a rush to form big business combinations in restraint of trade. In recent months this element has launched a number of highly shady speculative expeditions, schemes, which I am glad to say, the Coolidge department of justice has sat down on hard. But the faith these high finance, sleight of hand performers manifest in taking chances serves to illustrate the point I am making."

Congressional Mapping Plans.
Both the Republican and Democratic campaign committees are mapping active work in behalf of congressional candidates. Senatorial and Republican congressional campaign committees, are being established at Chicago. These headquarters will be opened about Aug. 15, with Senator Densen and Representative Wood (Ind.) in charge. Senator Phelps (Colo.), chairman of the senatorial committee, expects to be at headquarters part of the time. The congressional committee also will maintain an eastern headquarters in New York City.

CORN BELT IN REVOLT
BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Davenport, Ia., July 4.—[Special.]—Congress having adjourned, the eyes of politicians now make a jump from Washington, 2,000 miles inland, to the great political storm center of the 1926 campaign. Statesmen today were heating it back to their corn belt constituents, while fourth of July orators were preparing to slip a few remarks on the failure of farm relief into their addresses tomorrow as a curtain raiser for more to come.

From all appearances there is a sectional cleavage, such as politics has not seen in years—the agricultural west against the industrial east, or, rather, the west against what it deems the unsympathetic attitude of the east towards the farmer's problems.

Six Insurgent States.
Six states embrace the area where insurgency is most rampant. This region of agrarian unrest includes Iowa, Nebraska, the two Dakotas, Minnesota, and Wisconsin. Political leaders declare the region is burning with resentment against the failure of farm legislation. As a demonstration they point to the Nye victory in North Dakota, which, for nearly a decade has been a Nonpartisan league state, any way, and more particularly to the

UPSHAW SAYS REED GOT $25,000 FEE IN BIG CRIMINAL CASE

Atlanta, Ga., July 4.—(AP)—Answering charges brought out in the investigation by the senate committee of "honorary" paid prominent prohibition speakers, Congressman William D. Upshaw (Dem., Ga.) last night declared the right of "overworked and underpaid" congressmen and senators to receive money for "outside work."

A portion of the statement issued by the congressman referred to Senator James A. Reed, chairman of the campaign funds committee.

"As for Senator Reed, he is the last man who should point the finger of indictment against any other member of congress," Upshaw declared. "I have a program from Boston declaring that he received a fee of $25,000 since he has been a United States senator for defending a notorious criminal official whose office had become a rendezvous of thieves and a nest of crime, and who was barred from practice in law because of his shocking crime."

Mr. Upshaw said he would name the "notorious criminal" official when the time is ripe.

triumph of Brookhart over Cummins in conservative old Iowa.

The more unopposed ones say the summer may see the prairies blazing as in the old days of Populism. They see in it the makings of a situation not unlike the agitation in the west from the close of the civil war period to the first Bryan campaign in 1896.

Democrats See Hope in 1928.
It's the biggest political disturbance since the Bull Moose days in 1912. It may affect the Republican presidential nomination in 1928. The Democrats already are building expectations that it may give them a chance two years hence. They are talking of an agricultural appeal with an agricultural candidate and a combination of the south and the west.

The six states in this unrest comprise the fastest producing land in the world. The states have a population of over ten million, about one-tenth the people of the United States. They contain one-seventh of the land area of the United States. They have the lowest rate of illiteracy in the country—less than 2 per cent, as against 6 per cent for the United States, and Iowa, with a mark of 1 per cent, is the lowest of all states in illiteracy.

Rural Population Large.
The six states have only six towns of over 100,000 population out of 74 such cities in the country. They contain only sixteen cities of 25,000 to 100,000 population out of 232 such sized towns in the United States. The population living in the rural districts ranges from 86 per cent in North Dakota to 63 per cent in Iowa, and 52 in Wisconsin, as compared with 32 per cent in a state like Illinois, and 48 per cent for the United States at large.

The six state area produced more than one-fifth of the aggregate value of all crops in America last year, Iowa ranking second among all states. This does not include hog, animal husbandry, dairying and poultry, and the area includes states like Wisconsin and Iowa and parts of Minnesota, where agriculture is most intensified and crops are turned into beef, pork and butter fats.

The view out here is that agriculture needs some fundamental relief. The farmers do not talk in terms of any one measure; one rarely hears a bill spoken of by name. But what has incensed them has been the failure at Washington to hand them even what they might regard as a kind word.

How They Reason It Out.
Here's the process of reasoning one hears among them, business men as well as farmers:

1. Industries are protected by a high tariff wall, that increases the price of goods the farmer buys.
2. Railroads are protected by the Elche-Cummins act, and by the interstate commerce commission.
3. Labor got the Adamson law; it is protected by the immigration law to keep out labor.
4. The banks are protected by the federal reserve.
5. But agriculture which holds one-fifth of the tangible national wealth, which has a purchasing power of ten billion dollars a year, which buys at billion dollars worth of manufactured products or one-sixth the output, which supplies one-eighth of the freight tonnage of the railroads, furnishes one-half of our exports and pays one-fifth the taxes, is without protection.

SWEDEN SEEKS BEST SEED FOR EACH DISTRICT

Lowden Visits Station 200 Years Old.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 4.—

Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois, spent yesterday inspecting the famous central Swedish agricultural experimental station just outside of Stockholm. This is the oldest station of its kind in the world, being an outgrowth of the first experimental station established at Upsala by Valerius about 200 years ago.

Under the guidance of Prof. F. O. Lowden, one of the chiefs of the school, ex-Gov. Lowden visited the experimental plots where various kinds of grains and other plants are tried out to test their usefulness in Swedish climate and soil.

Also Make Tests on Farms.
In addition to these plots at the college, there are many hundreds on the farms throughout the country in charge of students, where local farmers can actually see what is being done. It has been found that the decentralization is important, not only from the point of view of interesting the farmers, but because the climate and soil of Sweden vary so widely that varieties suitable to one part may not thrive in another.

One of the interesting developments Mr. Lowden saw was electric cultivation by which both electricity and heat are used to hasten growth. Under electric light at night, to help the daytime sun, tomatoes mature two months early, while electrically heated beds take the place of manure for plants requiring forcing by heat. This system renders necessary by the growth of the use of the automobile and the consequent scarcity of stable manure.

Another point which interested Mr. Lowden as a farmer was that red clover has been discovered in Sweden, which thrives on acid soil.

Visits Pioneer Botanist's Home.
Mr. Lowden and family motored to Upsala, the ancient capital of Sweden, today. They visited the cathedral during the services and then the university and leading public buildings. The party also visited the home at Upsala of Carl von Linné, the father of modern botany, where the garden is now restored as it was in Linné's time. Mr. Lowden was much interested in the relics which the modern farmer's greatest friend used, and which are

COP WITH FISTS ROUTS 6 TO HUSH "SWEET ADELIN"

"Sweet Adeline" thrilled through the night air as six stout Swedish gentlemen sought to serenade the neighborhood around Alms and Clark streets shortly after midnight yesterday.

Policeman Leo Fegan of the Town Hall station, off duty and en route to his home at 6119 North Lincoln avenue, picked up his ear to listen. "For you I pine," swelled the voices. Policeman Fegan, thus pined for, moved nearer and requested quiet in the name of the law. The six brethren waxed more musical and became aggressive.

Dismissing club and gun, Policeman Fegan pitched in with Irish brawn and soon had four singers on the run. The other two he captured and took to the Town Hall station where they sang the prisoner's song the rest of the night.

After giving their names as Hilding Norling, 22 years old, a carpenter, and Gunner Swenson, 21, a waiter, both of 1554 Foster avenue, they were booked on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct.

now displayed in the house which is run as the Linne museum.

After this visit Mr. Lowden also visited Linne's country home, about five miles from Upsala, which is also preserved as closely as possible in the condition in which it was during the botanist's life.

The ex-governor tomorrow will take a 150 mile motor ride, inspecting the famous forests, sawmills, and pulp and paper mills at Soderfors.

CALLES FORCES FAIR CONGRESS VOTE IN MEXICO

Mexico City, July 4.—(AP)—Mexicans went to the polls today to elect senators and congressmen. This election is unique, for, regardless of who wins, the result cannot affect the existing Calles government.

The Mexican government has made careful preparations to insure fair as well as bloodless elections.

The dominant parties contesting are the Labor, Socialist and Agrarian. The Socialists are Socialists only by name. They support the government and have no Socialist program. The Agrarians and Laborites, too, favor the government.

Another important group is the "Coalition of Regional Parties," under which nearly all independents are combined. The independents also are friendly toward the Calles regime.

Rain cut down the number of voters going to the polls in Mexico City. All drinking places were ordered closed from early Saturday night until Monday morning.

MEXICO STIFLES CATHOLIC PRESS; POPE PROTESTS

Catholics interested will be represented at the meeting Monday and probably on successive occasions, not to oppose the government and the law, but to attempt to find a way out of the labyrinth. Representations probably will be made to Rome, explaining the situation at the close of the meetings. This will be the voice of all Catholic Mexicans.

POPE CRITICIZES MEXICO

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 4.—The pope today received 100 students from the Latin American college. In speaking of the mistreatment of Catholics in Mexico, he said, "It is not only iniquitous, but diabolical, to oppress and to betray the sentiments of a people. And it is cruel derision under these circumstances to speak of liberty and right of laws which are a pretense for the conduct of those who oppress the Catholics in Mexico."

"Justice is the result of law, but the laws must be formed according to justice," the pope asserted.

Pope Pius congratulated the students on their religious zeal. The college, which was founded by Pope Pius IX, and was directed by the Jesuit fathers for young men of all Latin American states, now has a membership of 250, which are mostly Mexicans, owing to the closing of institutions in Mexico.

Confidence in Mexico.
The pope said he had asked the Catholic world to pray for Mexico and that the students must have confidence in the efficacy of prayer. "But I have the greatest confidence in the Mexicans themselves," he added, "because there is a splendid tradition in their blood of profound piety toward the blessed virgin and toward the protection of their country. When a people has such religious sentiments, all good can be exploited in all circumstances."

U. S. CATHOLICS BITTER.
New York, July 4.—[Special.]—The new decree of the Mexican government, confiscating church property and restricting the Catholic press, drew from Judge Alfred J. Talley, chairman of the committee on Catholic interests of the Catholic club, a renewal of the demand that the United States withdraw recognition of Mexico and brand it an outlaw among nations. Judge Talley, with former Judge Morgan J. O'Brien, appeared before the foreign relations committee of the house of representatives in April in support of the Boylan resolution, which urged such action.

Critic of Coolidge.
"For more than three months the Mexican government has been feeling its way to determine how far it could go with the Coolidge administration in its policy of destroying religious rights in Mexico," Judge Talley said.

"Having observed that our state department has done nothing either to compel Mexico to keep its promise to preserve religious liberty made at the time this country granted recognition or to protect the rights of American citizens or to respect the dignity of the United States, Calles now takes the plunge and outdoes Russia in putting into force a system of religious persecution without parallel in recent times."

"The laws destroy the practice of religion and the protection of the priesthood, but any person, priest or layman, who protests in writing or in speech shall be jailed."

"No matter how outrageous the act of any official may be, ministers who might meet together to protest or to protect their people shall be punished by five years' imprisonment. This is terrorism, red, stark, and terrible, and yet the United States government under Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg continues to recognize Mexico as a friendly power."

100 FETES MARK CELEBRATION OF CHICAGO FOURTH

Thousands Pay Tribute to Nation's Fathers.

Four o'clock, July 4, 1926.
Four o'clock, July 4, 1926.
In the 150 years intervening between those hours America's 110,000,000 people found cause to celebrate and Chicago's 3,000,000 were among those rejoicing because of peace, prosperity, and freedom.
This homage was paid to those who made this celebration possible. Speakers from all over the country carried the message of their audiences back to the hands of patriots who founded the country.
Four o'clock in the afternoon was the hour fixed by all arrangement committees for the feature of the celebration. Promptly on the minute the declaration of Independence was read in 100 different places in the forest preserve.

Legion's Ritual Read.
The American Legion had its ritual read promptly at 4 o'clock. It was read promptly at 4 o'clock. It was read promptly at 4 o'clock.

The hour which has been set for reconstruction of loyal American citizens to American ideals is at hand. The hundred and fifty years ago to-day 150 years ago, determined men, their hearts filled with love of justice, freedom, and democracy, indured a moment that made the United States of America an independent nation.
Today, at the present moment, countless thousands of Americans are standing with bared heads in respect to the commemoration of those brave men. Let us bow our heads and call to mind those men to whom America owes so much, and as the roll is called let each of us pledge our lives to the principles for which they sacrificed their lives and property.

Blackhawk Post Celebrates.
Among the leading celebrations of yesterday was that by the Blackhawk post of the American Legion at the celebration of the field house in Blackhawk park, Laverne and Belden avenues, arranged by Capt. James C. Russell.
Capt. Palmer D. Edmunds read the ritual, then pronounced the names of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, beginning with John Adams and ending with George Wythe. Then the entire assembly recited "The American Creed".
"I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perpetual union; one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes.

Therefore believe it my duty to my country to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws, to revere its flag, and to defend it against all enemies."

Senator Stock Is Speaker.
Howard P. Savage, Illinois commit-tee of the Legion, was officer of the day. United States Senator Daniel Stock, past commander of the Iowa legion, was the principal speaker.
Senator Stock urged the necessity of preparedness for war. This country, he said, never engaged in war except to defend liberty. Soldiers who saw service in France are better entitled to appreciate America, he said. The American Legion, he declared, is always eager to give its best to perpetuate the ideals for which it fought and America can always count upon its members.
Not only was Independence day celebrated yesterday, but it will be again today. Yesterday was the occasion of ceremony, today will be the holiday.

Marked Exodus to Country.
The same Fourth idea seemed to be taking hold, officials observed. The status of families into the country, to the forest preserves, and to the parks was marked. The loop had its usual holiday appearance; the countryside was thronged with people.

ITALY TO BANISH ALL MIDDLEMEN, NEXT DUCE PLAN

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)
ROME, July 4.—In addition to the drastic measures already in effect the Italian government intends to put through an even more sweeping program to restore the economic equilibrium of Italy.
"Premier Mussolini is convinced," The Tribune is told, "that the spring of 1927 will mark the apex of the economic crisis in Europe, and is preparing for it. Among the measures to be adopted by the council of ministers in the next few sessions is one doing away with the middlemen. Shopkeepers and commercial interests may be dissatisfied with this, but the people at large, who will get food and the necessities of life cheaper, will be happy."

The government also is instituting steps to bring the money back to a gold basis by introduction of a new monetary unit to be guaranteed by gold.
perintendent George Donoghue had prepared for special services in the south parks. It was so wherever one went.
Hundreds of Chicagoans drove to Bridgeport, Mich., for the three day program which is to benefit disabled veterans and the orphan's national endowment fund of the American Legion. John R. McQuigg, national commander of the Legion, had opened the celebration on Saturday.

South Side Fete Today.
The Bryn Mawr-Highland district will have its Independence day fete today, beginning at 9 o'clock with a parade that will end in Selk field, 71st street and Jeffery avenue. Judge David F. Matchett will be the first speaker. Former Judge Paul Corkell will be master of ceremonies.
There will be foot races for children of all ages and prizes for each runner. In the afternoon there will be a ball game between the Bryn Mawr and the Highland teams. Judge Francis Borrell is captain of a team of old time indoor baseball players who will perform.

SEIZE YOUTH WITH LOOT.
Worth L. Phillips, 18 years old, was arrested yesterday with loot valued at $250 he had taken from a loop department store. He told the Central police that his home was in South Charleston, W. Va.

SHERIFF FREE IN A WEEK, BUT HE CAN'T GO HOME

Son Is Stricken with Scarlet Fever.

Trouble continues to rain upon Sheriff Peter M. Hoffman, who upon his release from the Wheaton jail a week hence cannot even enter his own home in Des Plaines. For yesterday it became known that Gordon Hoffman, the sheriff's son, has contracted scarlet fever, and the Hoffman home is under quarantine.
Nor can Mrs. Hoffman, whose faithful visits have buoyed the sheriff's spirits during his confinement, see him, for she is devoting herself to caring for her son, and may not leave the quarantine.
Still the sheriff's spirits were not downed yesterday, when he spent the fourth of July in his cell, for, as he put it, "My conscience is clear. I have done no wrong, and in the end right will be established."

Sheriff Hoffman was relieved to receive reports that Gordon's illness was not considered dangerous, although naturally he was irked at the thought that he cannot enter his home for four weeks, or, if he does, he must remain there until the quarantine is lifted.
The sheriff's daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Johnson, had been seriously ill of the same fever when her father was ordered to jail, but she has recovered, and day before yesterday she paid her first visit to him in jail.
Nothing broke the monotony of jail life for the sheriff yesterday except his customary morning conference with Assistant Sheriff George Webster, who has acquainted Mr. Hoffman almost daily with affairs of the Cook county sheriff's office. Despite the holiday, no privileges were allowed by Sheriff John Heisterman.

Capt. Wesley Westbrook, also sentenced in connection with favors alleged to have been granted to Terry Druggan and Frankie Lake, spent another drab day at the De Kalb county jail at Sycamore.

EVANSTON POLICE CAPTURE SLAYER OF TWO OFFICERS

Joseph Stimas, a 55 year old miner, who has been sought since last September when he shot and killed a policeman and a deputy sheriff at To-luca, Ill., was taken into custody yesterday by Detectives Benjamin Kennedy and Samuel Bell of the Evanston police force.

Stimas, during a quarrel with his wife, fired a revolver and his neighbors called the authorities. Deputy Sheriff Orville Litchfield and Policeman John Leonard were killed when they went to arrest him.
The detectives caught the fugitive at Davis street and Sherman avenue. In his pockets Stimas had a dagger, a blackjack and $400. Since his disappearance the home of his son-in-law, Robert Booth, of 1005 Dewey avenue, Evanston, has been constantly watched by the police.

TUG AT EVIDENCE NET IN KIDNAPING OF EVANGELIST

Officials Trying Hard to Tighten Lines on Facts.

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)
Los Angeles, Cal., July 4.—[Special.]—United States District Attorney Samuel McNab reached this city today and at once assumed charge of the government's investigation into events of the Aimee McPherson case. Following his extended trip in quest of facts he denied that government agents were prepared to seize a typewriter believed to be the one used in writing a letter demanding $500,000 ransom for Mrs. McPherson. The letter was mailed on a train between El Paso and Tucson. One report today stated that investigators thought they had located the typewriter in this city, but that the machine had disappeared in the last twenty-four hours.

Proposes Definite Action.
McNab tonight said: "I am in possession of certain facts that I will present to postal inspectors, and after I have conferred with my assistant, who has been in charge of the case during my absence, I will take steps for a far reaching investigation. The government is only interested in such phases as the sending of an extortion missive through the mails. We hope all letters of this nature received at Angelus temple will be turned over to us."
Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, the woman evangelist herself, and several workers at Angelus temple are to be the first ones summoned before the federal grand jury Wednesday, it is expected.

Awails Douglas Report.
Detective Captain Herman Cline today conferred with Detective Nick Harris, who was retained by Mrs. Kennedy yesterday, and both Harris and Attorney Arthur Veitch, acting for Mrs. McPherson, made a stipulation that they would assist the authorities with all evidence they secure, whether it tends to substantiate or to cast doubt on Mrs. McPherson's narrative.

BRONZE MEMORIAL TO DECLARATION SIGNERS UNVEILED

Philadelphia, Pa., July 4.—[AP.]—A bronze memorial to signers of the Declaration of Independence, whose graves are in the burial ground of Old Christ church, was unveiled today by six young women, descendants of the signers.
Later the annual independence outdoor ceremony was held in Independence square on the spot where, 150 years ago, the great document was promulgated. Marquis de Dampierre, grand-nephew of the Marquis de Lafayette, friend and aide of Gen. Washington, was present.

of her disappearance. Attorney Veitch was retained by Mrs. McPherson's mother yesterday.
Capt. Cline is anxious to receive a mailed report from Police Chief Percy Bowden of Douglas, Ariz. Chief Bowden's report is supposed to review the entire McPherson mystery from Los Angeles, which were checked up at Douglas, at Agua Prieta, Mexico, and at Tucson and Bisbee, Ariz. Chief Bowden refused to comment on his report by wire or long distance telephone, stating that "Capt. Cline may or may not make it public, as he wishes."

Conducts Church Services.
Mrs. McPherson today conducted gospel services at Angelus temple. Five thousand attended. Her services were broadcasted by radio. Mrs. McPherson said later that the number of converts today approaches a record for one day during her years of evangelical work.
A petition signed with 100 names arrived from Denver today urging Mrs. McPherson to go to that city for a "rousing revival" at her "earliest convenience."
Mrs. McPherson has stated that she shortly will leave Los Angeles for a tour around the world.

6 DIE AS AUTO TOLL MOUNTS TO 401 FOR RECORD

Deaths on July 4, 1925,
35 Less.

Six persons died as a result of automobile accidents in Cook county yesterday, raising the total for the year to 401, a new record for July 4.

The total number killed in 1925, up to and including July 4, was 366. It was not until July 19 that the 400 mark was reached.

Mrs. Verna Sorgent, 28 years old, of Glenwood, was fatally injured when she attempted to leap from a sedan after her husband had lost control and it had plunged into a ditch in Chicago Heights.

As she leaned from a window of the car it overturned, pinning her between the body and the ground. She died at the West End hospital in Chicago Heights.

Husband a Novice Driver.
The husband, who told the police that he purchased the car only a week ago, was only slightly injured. Frank De Pola, 25 years old, 610 South Loomis street, died at the Mother Cabrini hospital soon after he suffered a skull fracture in an accident at Taylor and Lytle streets. An automobile in which he was riding, driven by Peter Spinnato, 820 South Morgan street, turned over as it rounded the corner. Spinnato, who was slightly injured, was held for reckless driving.

Mother of Seven Killed.
Mrs. Caroline Hewitt, 37 years old, 827 West 64th street, mother of seven children, died at the Englewood hospital, injuries suffered Saturday, when she was struck at 634 and Morgan streets by an automobile driven by William Bowling, 1005 West 64th street.

Leonard Dennitz, 6 years old, 417 West Roosevelt road, died at the Street hospital of injuries sustained on June 10, when he was struck at Kedzie avenue and Roosevelt road by a car driven by Earl Worcester, 1040 Wesley avenue, Oak Park.

Lake Forest Man Hurt.
W. G. O'Neill, 26 years old, of Lake Forest, was seriously injured when a car he was driving struck a tree on Maple road, in Winnetka, and was overturned. He was hurled out and pinned between the automobile and the tree. At the Evanston hospital it was said he had suffered a fractured skull and a broken leg.

Four men were injured when an automobile, driven by James Savides, 2000 Indiana avenue, crashed into a surface car at Harrison and Throop streets. Four others were hurt in accidents in Berwyn, none seriously. John Slaskiewicz, 8028 Jeffery avenue, was charged with driving while intoxicated after his car had collided with that of L. R. Breamer, a prohibition agent, and Dr. Joseph E. Springer, coroner's physician, at 83d street and Colfax avenue.

Mother Tries to End Life; Saved by Young Daughter
Mrs. Anna Johnson, 45 years old, attempted to commit suicide last night by inhaling gas at her home, 2247 Seminary avenue. The effort was thwarted when her 12 year old daughter, Margaret, found her unconscious and summoned aid. She was revived at the John H. Murphy hospital. In a note Mrs. Johnson stated that she wanted to die because of domestic difficulties.

REVOLT IN PERSIA

Turk nomads and Kurds in the province of Khorasan have risen in revolt against Shah Pehlevi, the new ruler of Persia. Troops are also being rushed to Azerbaijan, indicating a spread of uprising to that province.

SHIP DESERTERS ON LAKES WORRY U. S. OFFICIALS

Milwaukee, Wis., July 4.—[Special.]—Immigration authorities on the great lakes expect to be unusually busy this summer as the result of seamen deserting foreign ocean going vessels. Several such violations of the immigration laws were reported last year and at the beginning of the navigation season this spring.

The latest violation is reported by Capt. George Barstad, who says that seven of his crew of eighteen, including the first mate and cook, were missing from the Norwegian tramp steamer Reinunga as it was making ready to clear port here yesterday. Two Spaniards, four Norwegians and a Swede are missing.

The steamer is one of a fleet of four bringing spruce pulp to Wisconsin paper mills from Swedish forests.

Girl, Despondent Over Illness, Tries to End Life

Despondent over ill health, Miss Margaret Reynolds, 22 years old, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by drinking poison at her home, 3459 West 62d place. She was taken to the County hospital, where it was said she would recover.

KURDS AND TURK NOMADS REVOLT AGAINST PERSIA

Troops Join Rebels; New Shah Fears Coup.

BY H. BASIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
TEHERAN, Persia, July 4.—Turk nomads and Kurds in the province of Khorasan are in revolt against the government of Shah Pehlevi. It is believed Russia is encouraging the movement because the government of the new shah is leaning toward England.

Eight hundred Persian army regulars have gone over to the rebels. Large forces of troops are leaving Teheran in the dead of night for the trouble zone. All available automobiles have been requisitioned to move the army. Wire communication with the troubled districts is completely cut off.

A military expedition has also been sent to the district of Azerbaijan. This is taken here as an indication of a spreading of the disturbance. Press censorship is becoming more strict and the country is buzzing with the wildest rumors about the shah.

Shah Pehlevi is reported to be losing influence with the royalists and the reduction of the war budget is creating great discontent among the military officers and army. The anti-royalists are taking advantage of this situation to start agitation against Pehlevi.

The shah is making every effort to suppress the Khorasan uprising, fearing a repetition of the coup d'état by which he made himself ruler of Persia, with the present army chief in the role of usurper.

ITALY ARRESTS 36 REDS TRYING TO LURE ARMY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
ROME, July 4.—Thirty-six communists, including two secretaries of departments of the chamber, were arrested today following the discovery of a communist plot to overthrow the government with the aid of the army.

The two deputies, Sig. Malinalli and Sig. Greco, who are immune to arrest except when caught red handed, were denounced as being implicated in the plot. Police documents submitted say that in two cases books, pamphlets, and manifestos captured revealed that communistic propaganda has intensified since October, 1925, and the Reds are hoping to overthrow the government.

To accomplish this $50,000 lire ($11,760) monthly was spent in Rome alone.

FIND CHICAGOAN SLAIN IN CELLAR OF BURNED HOUSE

Abilene, Kan., July 4.—[Special.]—The body of a man with the skull crushed and partly buried was found today in the cellar of an abandoned farm house, fifteen miles southeast of the city, after the house had been destroyed by fire. The body was identified as that of a harvest worker known as O. S. Ferdensburg, 24, who said he had worked as a porter in a Chicago hospital. The victim had been following the harvest in his Ford car, accompanied by Francis Duncan, alias Cecil Pansley, 26, and a small boy haired blonde, who said she was Duncan's wife. Near the burned house was found the woman's hat.

Duncan and the woman, also said to be from Chicago, have disappeared and officers are hunting them in the belief they murdered Ferdensburg for his earnings and the car.

CAILLAUX TRIES TO FORCE FISCAL ALOES ON FRANCE

Backs Experts' Dose of Rigid Economy.

BY HENRY WALES.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

PARIS, July 4.—Joseph Caillaux, minister of finance, tonight is putting the finishing touches on the declaration which he intends to make before the chamber of deputies on Tuesday and which he will submit to his colleagues on the cabinet tomorrow for their approval.

The finance minister intends to stand pat on the contents of the report by the national committee of financial experts, and to demand that the parliament grant him "full power" to apply his policies and to carry out the fiscal reorganization of the country.

Amounts to Dictatorship.
This will amount to giving him a dictatorship, enabling him to issue his decrees like laws, without the chamber debating or voting on the measure.

A serious split exists among the members of the government as to the advisability of permitting M. Caillaux to enjoy such full powers, and many sense the greatest danger even in his asking the chamber to grant them.

The fear is expressed that M. Tardieu may seize upon the occasion to torpedo the new cabinet, which had a narrow escape last week when M. Clemenceau's lieutenant was attacked.

Budget Not Balanced.
Consentation has been caused by the experts' admission that the budget was not really balanced after all, and that there is actually a 6,500,000,000 franc ($148,000,000) deficit because this amount was carried in twelve "special budgets" and was not figured among the items in the regular budget.

The Experts Report.
PARIS, July 4.—(U. N.)—Immediate ratification of the Berenger-Mellon debt agreement with the United States has been recommended by the French committee of financial experts.

Three principle recommendations are made by the committee and following their publication today it is said that Minister of Finance Caillaux has accepted them as the basis of the financial projects which he will urge on the French parliament immediately.

The committee asserts that stabilization of French finances is imperative; that foreign loans and credits, which should total $200,000,000 at the outset, are necessary to permit stabilization; and that immediate ratification of the Berenger-Mellon agreement for settlement of the French debt is an urgent necessity, as is negotiation for great Britain.

See Interior Crisis.
A period of severe trial for the French franc is foreseen by the experts. They feel that stabilization, even with the use of the methods which they see as urgent necessities, cannot be accomplished without a great economic crisis in the interior of France. But this trial they feel to be inevitable.

In brief the report says that "to give the country a definite solution of the monetary crisis the government must ask the country to exert its utmost efforts to throw the searchlight on the real situation and to realize that the hour for half truths has passed."

Reparations and Debts.
The report cites the great war as one of the principal causes of financial instability.

"Our present payments from Germany," it continues, "will barely meet the debts we have to the United States and Great Britain. It is doubtful if there will be anything left for us after these payments are made.

"Final collapse of the franc is the result of an unhealthy financial policy, after abuse of appeals for credit, which have shaken confidence. New fears have been caused by various threats on capital."

No time must be wasted in moving for stabilization, in the opinion of these men, who are advising Caillaux and the Briand government.

"The committee is firm in the conviction that stabilization of the franc must be realized as soon as possible," says the report.

No Levy on Capital.

"After reviewing all possible solutions the committee has rejected the one which called for a levy on capital, with forced loans and reduction of coupons on state bonds. But the committee is of the opinion that a policy of volunteer consolidation of national defense bonds will be indispensable and that this step should be taken as soon as it is possible."

"The state is not in a position to assume the responsibility for carrying out a stabilization program. The Bank of France must intervene and a rate more favorable than that based on the present value of the franc should be chosen to aid in stabilization."

The experts point out that inasmuch as use of the first line of defense, the actual gold reserve of the Bank of France, has raised objections, help from abroad must be sought.

UNCLE SAM GETS ALLEGED OSAGE INDIAN SLAYERS

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 4.—(AP)—W. K. Hale, so-called "king of the Osage hills," tonight faced a federal charge of murder for the death of one of the victims of the "wholesale murder plot," which, it is charged, was perpetrated against wealthy Osage Indians in Oklahoma.

The federal government obtained custody of Hale and John Ramsey, an alleged accomplice, late last night when Federal Judge John H. Cotteral at Guthrie granted a writ of habeas corpus, which effected the transfer of the men from state jurisdiction. Hale and Ramsey have been held in the Osage county jail at Pawhuska, awaiting trial in state district court for the killing of W. E. Smith, a rancher.

Gives His Life Trying to Rescue Daughter

Portsmouth, O., July 4.—(AP)—George M. Taylor, president of the Portsmouth Morning Sun, sacrificed his life today in an attempt to save his 11 year old daughter, Betty, from drowning in the Scioto river.

GIRL, IN CELL, CHARGES PLOT BY FORMER WOOER

Held on Two Charges of Larceny.

Facing charges of larceny in both Chicago and Macon, Mo., Mrs. Anna Butler, 27 years old, 4028 Clarendon avenue, is being held at the Harrison street station pending the arrival of Sheriff Morton Meisner of Macon with extradition papers. She was taken into custody Saturday at a loop store, where she was employed as a demonstrator of toilet articles, by Sergeants Sullivan and Martin of the detective bureau.

Miss Jennie Barclay, well-to-do spinster of Macon, is the complainant on the first charge. She had offered a reward of $200 for the arrest of the girl, whom she charges with having robbed her of $2,000 worth of clothes and jewels.

Mrs. Gladys Wagner, 863 Newport avenue, Chicago, asserts that the prisoner rented a room from her and that when she left she took with her garments valued at $1,000.

Both charges are vigorously denied by the Butler girl, whose parents are citizens of Joliet. Her troubles, she declares, are due to the malevolent activities of a man with whom she eloped when she was under age and with whom she lived for four years, and who, she said, had sworn to "get her, and get her good."

This man, who had served a term in Joliet penitentiary for larceny, was in Macon when she was visiting at the Barclay home more than a year ago. Her only luggage on leaving the town was a small suit box, and her fare to Chicago was paid by Miss Barclay, with whom she had been on the best of terms, she declares.

'I WAS JUSTIFIED,' TO BE DURKIN'S PLEA TOMORROW

Slayer to Tell His Side
from Witness Stand.

Justification is to be the defense of Martin J. Durkin in his trial for the murder of Government Agent Edwin Shanahan, according to the statement yesterday of his counsel, Eugene L. McGarry.

When Judge Harry B. Miller opens court tomorrow morning Durkin will at once be called to the witness stand by Attorney McGarry and Attorney Roland Libonati, who were appointed by the court to defend him. His version of the events preceding and succeeding the killing of Shanahan, and of the thirty seconds or so in which Shanahan accosted Durkin in a garage and attempted to arrest him only to be mortally wounded, will be related by Durkin himself.

Thought Agent a Robber.
His oft uttered plea that he thought Shanahan a crook like himself and intending to rob him will be given by Durkin to the jury. It is his main defense, Attorney McGarry said yesterday, and it will be supplemented by arguments of the attorneys.

They recalled the novel and unique defense offered for Scallisi and Anselmi: "A citizen is justified in killing a policeman who unlawfully seeks to arrest him."

Killed Two Policemen.
Scallisi and Anselmi had killed two policemen. They were of the Genna gang and they fought with a detective bureau squad car that pursued the Genna car for two miles.

"We thought the policemen were other gangsters trying to kill us," Scallisi and Anselmi said and attorneys Thomas D. Nash and Michael Ahern said the rest.

For two days Attorney Ahern argued and cited Supreme court decisions to the effect that a person may resist unlawful arrest, even to the point of killing those attempting to make the arrest. The point involved, of course, was lawful or unlawful arrest.

Same Defense for Durkin.
Scallisi and Anselmi were acquitted on one murder charge and sentenced to fourteen years on the other charge, which is now awaiting review by the Supreme court. So attorneys McGarry and Libonati plan to make the same defense for Durkin.

Mr. McGarry said yesterday he intends to offer in evidence the rules of the United States department of justice, of which Shanahan was an agent. These rules, he said, give an agent no arresting power. Shanahan, therefore, had not the authority to lawfully arrest Durkin, the lawyer said, and hence Durkin had the right to resist.

Prosecution is Confident.
That defense, naturally, will be coupled with Durkin's own, that he thought Shanahan wanted to rob him of the $2,000 he carried on his person and which he had acquired through bootlegging. The lawyers, too, intend to drag prohibition into the argument because of this circumstance.

Prosecutors Michael Romano and Lewis Blumenthal, however, are not at all doubtful of the outcome of the trial. They said they have undoubtedly presented to the jury a case of murder that calls for the extreme penalty, hanging, and so far their evidence is unshaken. They will have many pertinent questions to ask Durkin, they said, when it is their turn to cross-examine him.

DAWES TO CARRY FIGHT ON SENATE RULES TO PEOPLE

Plans Many Speeches
During Recess.

Washington, D. C., July 4.—(AP)—Determined again to carry his fight for amendment of the senate rules to the country, Vice President Dawes is preparing to deliver a number of addresses on that subject during the summer.

Mr. Dawes has returned to his home in Evanston, Ill., but will go to Salem, Mass., next Wednesday, for the first address at the celebration of the 300th anniversary of the founding of Salem.

Early in August he plans to go to Colorado on a fishing trip, and he will speak in Denver at the 50th anniversary of Colorado's admission to statehood. Later he will speak at Wagon Wheel Gap, 300 miles southwest of Denver.

Vice President Dawes has advocated a change in the rules so that a majority of the senate might be able to close debate at any time. That end is sought, so far as debate on revenue and appropriation bills is concerned, in an amendment still pending when congress adjourned. The bill was submitted by Senator Underwood (Dem., Ala.). It aroused a storm of opposition, particularly from Senators Reed and Heflin (Ala.), Democrats, who derided what they described as an attempt to "silence" senate discussion.

Present rules of the senate provide that cloture may be imposed by a two-thirds vote but that rule has been successfully used only twice, once on the Versailles peace treaty, and more recently on the world court resolution.

RAPS COOLIDGE VETO OF INDIAN OIL LEASE BILL

Recent veto by President Coolidge of the Indian oil leasing bill will serve to revive previous efforts to effect the complete surrender of Indian rights. It was charged yesterday in a statement by John Collier, executive secretary of the American Indian Defense association, a national organization.

"This bill, which has been killed at least for the time being by the president's veto, was the first measure of broad justice affecting great numbers of Indians that has been passed by congress in many years," Mr. Collier said.

Not only did the bill protect the Indians in oil development, but also provided against the abolishing of Indian reservations except with the consent of congress, he declared.

"The veto," Mr. Collier asserted, "was a cold and cynical blow against Indian rights and the policies of conservation."

Mother, Racing from Texas, Reaches Stricken Girl Here
Making the trip to Chicago by rail after she had failed in an attempt to charter a plane for the journey, Mrs. Ileta Dittmar of Fort Worth, Tex., arrived in Chicago yesterday to be with her daughter, Miss Ileta Leggett, a patient in St. Elizabeth's hospital. Miss Leggett, an Art institute student, was thought to be dying following an operation for appendicitis. Her condition yesterday was somewhat improved, although still serious.

REGIMENTAL DINNER FOR 1320.
Col. Fred E. Rand, commander of the 132d Infantry regiment of the Illinois National Guard, will be host at a regimental dinner to be given in the armory Thursday evening. Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman and Brig. Gen. Abel Davis have been invited to speak.

THE CROWN IN CANADA

This is a late day for the now wise old British empire to permit the contest between crown and parliament to be renewed. One hundred and fifty years ago was supposed to have been the beginning of a resolution never again to interfere with the parliamentary rights of English speaking people, but Gov. Gen. Lord Byng of Canada, in zeal for empire, has given Canada the renewal and has made it the issue of a coming election.

If it develops along the line of its initial direction it may prove to be the most interesting and most important political event of a half century in the English speaking world. The governor general, stepping out of a picture 150 years old, refused to accept the advice of the prime minister, Mackenzie King of the Liberal government, for the dissolution of parliament. By doing so he established a Tory Conservative government under Arthur Meighen which, within four days, the Liberals defeated in parliament. Byng then did what he had refused to do when so advised by the Liberals—dissolved parliament and sent the country into the elections.

The advice of the minister is an obligation on the representative of the crown. A rejection of it imposes the crown as a power over parliament, limiting its authority and invading its rights. Meighen's Conservatives, whom this intervention benefited, are Tories. In a conflict between parliament and crown the Tory supports the crown. Mackenzie's Liberals are Whigs. The Whigs are parliamentarians. One hundred and fifty years ago there was that division over that question in the colonies which are now states.

The Canadian Tories are Imperialists. It was to promote the empire and adherence to Imperialistic policies that Byng allowed the Conservative government to supplant the Liberal without an election. The Liberals are at least lukewarm on empire and place Canadian domestic interests above Imperial interests in Abyssinia, Iraq, Egypt, India, and elsewhere. They take the line of complete Canadian decision at Ottawa on the projects of Downing street. Byng virtually said that the crown would intervene to bind Ottawa to London.

The Liberals go into the election saying that the issue is Canadian independence. History may record Byng as a unique survival in his time and place, may find him indiscreet, and his indiscretion amazing.

SHALL THE MOVIE BE MADE TO TALK?

An announcement from a great electric company says a device has been perfected which will endow the shadow actors of the moving picture screen with voices. A demonstration has just been had in New York. It is reported, and with success. We gather that the mechanism synchronizes a new sort of phonograph with a film projector. It is stated that all sounds incident to the acted scene—the puffing of the incoming train, the screaming of the heroine, and the hoofbeats of the rescuing hero's horse—are reproduced with consummate naturalness.

Presumably, the electric company and the moving picture firm which aided in the work believe they have attained an important scientific and commercial goal. The search for a method of voicing the screen has gone on for many years—practically since the movies made their first appearance. Early attempts were so painful to the audience that they were given up. No public trial of a talking device has been made in a long time, to our knowledge.

Is this new device an achievement or not? Scientifically, yes. Commercially, possibly; at least it will possess for a time the merit and drawing power of novelty. Artistically, we have our doubts. In the interim following the abandonment of the ancient movie phonographs, motion picture directors began and progressed far in developing a technique fitted to a drama which appealed to the visual sense alone. The movie of yesterday was a poor hybrid thing. It had not yet cast off the restraints imposed on the spoken drama of the stage; it had not yet realized the possibilities of scene, action, and emotional appeal available to a drama which could be acted in private, unfurnished afterward in innumerable ways, canned, and sent in its perfected form to a thousand simultaneous audiences a thousand miles and more away.

Because the movie producers could not have speech, they learned to do without it. They learned so well that today speech, we believe, would be anything but an asset. They learned that music might have an important part in conjunction with a moving picture. Music is used to inspire varying emotions in the motion picture actor. It is used to bring the movie patron into sympathetic key with the scenes he is witnessing. Wordless musical sounds do not require concentration. It is not necessary to grasp them and drag them into a consciousness preoccupied with visual reception. They filter in by themselves. The hearer scarcely realizes that he is hearing. He only knows that the emotions called into play by what he sees are stepped to a higher pitch by the tone vibrations.

Synchronized speech, on the other hand, requires a division of attention. It passes imagination to believe that sight and sound impressions coming from two different mechanical devices can be woven into one pattern as to reach the audience with a single effect. In the spoken drama speech and action emanate from a single motivating source. They are synchronized by a vital personality. They blend into a whole.

Had the motion picture and the talking device been developed together, some unique form of drama might have evolved which would satisfy successfully the requirements of theatergoers. They were not developed together. The motion picture has developed alone without a voice, and millions of people every night attest its appeal. It is doubtful, we think, whether the addition of voices and noises will prove anything beyond a novelty of transient value.

DECISION BY WAR

One of the silly statements used by pacifists is that war never settled anything. It is repeated by people who want to believe that war is not only an avoidable way of getting results but, worse than that, no way of getting any results which will endure.

Human affairs do not contemplate perpetuity, and the wars which left the white man master of Europe and the dominant force in the world may not keep him in that position for the rest of time, but thus far it has been a settlement.

War made the Roman empire and it made a civilization which was everything to centuries of Roman generations and which has its effect even now on life. War decided that the Atlantic World should not have Europe and it kept the Saracens from control of France and drove them out of Spain. If the settlement had been the other way white civilization would have been retarded, modified or possibly prevented.

War gave England a Norman leadership, a consolidated government and a changed language. It gave men freedom from arbitrary mastery. It gave them protection under governments which respect their lives and their property. It substituted successful democracies for intolerable tyrannies.

In this country it determined that the occupancy should be by white states instead of Indian tribes. It determined that the port of New York should be New York and not New Amsterdam. It determined that the French should not have this country or Canada and it determined that the American people should be free and that Canada should not be a part of the new republic.

It determined that this northwest territory should not be a part of Quebec. It determined that the country should remain united and should not be divided and that it should not be part free, part slave. The best minds in the country tried for years to find a settlement of that which would avoid war and they exhausted themselves and failed.

Even if the north had surrendered the principle of union and had permitted the erring states to go in peace there is no reason to believe that war could have been avoided. Two nations instead of one would have had the problem and it would not have dawned just because there was one government in Washington and another in Richmond established by uncontested accession. It probably would not have been more than a few years and they would have been fighting over fugitive slaves or for new territory. War settled that.

It determined that the territory north of the Rio Grande and along the Pacific coast should not be Mexican and that the territory south of the river should not be Spanish. It determined that Germany should not be the military master of Europe at this day, that Russia should be a communist autocracy and that Germany should be a democracy and not a reign of terror.

So far as permanence goes in human affairs war has settled more things of profound importance than any other agency or method or instrumentality. Most of the settlements have been what we regard as good settlements. It is better to have this country with the homes of whites rather than the tepees of Indians. We think it is better that we are speaking English and not French and that we are American citizens and not British subjects. We think it is better that there is not an international boundary line running along the Potomac and the Ohio or another running along the Mississippi. We think it is good that Americans are not passing through customs every time they want a change of climate in what is now their country and that the territory of the United States has one flag and not several.

War made it possible for a united country to celebrate the Fourth of July in conditions which are about as good as ever fell to the lot of the human race. If the men who signed the Declaration of Independence had trusted to their pens, to their persuasiveness, what they regarded as the justice and logic of their cause, that declaration might have been their death warrant, but it would not have been much else.

Washington made it an effective document and he did it with war. It may not be the most pleasant settlement, but frequently it has been the only one the human race was able to find.

Editorial of the Day

FARM BILL AFTERTHOUGHTS.

[New York Times.]

It would be a mistake to think of the great effort to secure farm legislation at this session of congress as purely a maneuver of politicians. It was that, in part, but it was something more. It represented a real discontent in certain agricultural states. This was confused and badly directed, but it was genuine. There was a great body of farm opinion, to which utterance was given by such a steady-going man as ex-Gov. Lowden, and which honestly believed that there is something rotten in the situation of agriculture in the United States, and that the government ought to seek to correct it.

This is the state of mind with which serious state-manship has to deal. We may put aside the hostilities of office seekers unblushingly chasing after the farmer vote. We may dismiss partisan intrigues and plots. There remains a substantial problem, partly agricultural and partly political, to be taken into serious consideration.

The special appeal of farmers for special laws in their favor had an undeniable plausibility. It would point to precedent. The farmers were able to allege that if they were asking for a subsidy it was only what others had both asked and obtained from the Republican party.

We have not in many years had so much plainness of speech on this subject from western Republicans, who were ready to affirm with Senator Cummins that if the farm bill were to be defeated simply because it was in effect a subsidy, then the whole system of protection is "doomed."

Are such threats to be followed up by action? This is the one political question of importance left over from the futile discussion and final defeat of the Haugen bill by the senate.

STARCHY FOODS, SWEETS.

THESE is a considerable number of middle aged people who have an intolerance for starchy foods and sweets, according to Kendall. The intolerance that he refers to is not shown by excess of sugar in the blood or urine. It is shown by an excessive tendency to intestinal fermentation. The symptoms given by Kendall are: Constipation, fatigue, gas in the bowels, pain around the heart, low blood pressure, and intolerance for starchy and sweet foods. Many of these people have a habit of waking somewhere between midnight and three o'clock in the morning, due to a gnawing pain felt in the abdomen, or gas in the intestines.

While the people who have this trouble are not exactly sick—only "enjoying a state of sub-health," as Kendall says—said of another group—there are some of them who have secondary anemia, some who have pernicious anemia, and some who have diabetes. Therefore, whenever a person finds that he has a group of symptoms, he should have himself examined for anemia and diabetes about once or twice a year. Kendall also advises a bacteriologic examination of the stools for certain gas producers in excessive numbers.

In all probability, many whose digestive apparatus cannot handle starchy foods already have suspected the fact. They have a home-made diagnosis. They suspect that some starchy foods, like strawberry shortcake, causes them to blow up. Or they have a hunch that pudding for supper spells trouble somewhere about the time the delivery wagon starts out in the morning. Some of them have learned that going supperless to bed guarantees a good night's sleep. But even these feel that they have so little power that they take a chance every now and then, and discover that, often, though not always, the result, Kendall advises a persistent day in and day out diet to be followed for months and years. In this diet, buttermilk, clabber and the various sour milks have a prominent part. He says: "Well, sour milk, about one quart a day, should be given, particularly between meals. There should be considerable restrictions in sweets, breads, cereals, potatoes and other starchy foods. Desserts should not be eaten. Sugar in coffee and tea may cause trouble. Therefore, it should be restricted or eliminated. Fruits are allowed, provided they are not sweetened."

FIBROID TUMOR.

M. S. writes: I have a small fibroid tumor.

1. Is there any way of getting rid of it without any operation?

2. What causes them?

3. Would diet help?

REPLY.

1. Yes. Radiation.

2. No one knows.

3. No.

AFTER EFFECTS OF SCARLET FEVER.

Mrs. A. B. writes:

1. Is there such a thing as scarlet fever that does not peel, or is this scarlatina?

2. I have heard that scarlet fever always leaves another sickness after the patient is well. Is this true?

REPLY.

1. There is. Scarlatina and scarlet fever are the same.

2. Not always.

3. Bright's disease, heart disease, diabetes, suppurations of the ears are diseases which frequently follow scarlet fever. It would be a mistake to say that scarlet fever is usually followed by another disease.

SPINACH IS HEALTHFUL.

1. Is spinach harmful?

2. I have been told that spinach causes cancer.

REPLY.

1. No.

2. They told you that about April 1.

BOX FOR BAGGAGE.

Chicago, June 25.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a small box. I would like to put a box on the back of it when I go on my vacation, in which to carry some baggage. I now have a passenger car license. If I put on this box will I have to have a truck license, too?

REPLY.

Not as we understand the facts.

CEMETERY LOTS.

Chicago, June 25.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—I own four cemetery lots. If I decide to sell the lots do I have to get the cemetery to make new deeds in the buyer's name or do I just sign my name on the deeds they have given me, and notify them I have sold the lots?

REPLY.

Presumably you should execute a new deed substantially duplicating in form one that you hold, but substituting the new grantee for your name and your name for the cemetery name. We suggest that you direct your inquiry to the cemetery officials.

THE RINKYDINK CLUB.

Chicago, June 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you give us aid in getting a vacant lot cleaned? This lot lies between my apartment and the city hall. It was taken up and was confined to a hospital, where examination showed that he had paresis. If the assignment is contested in court, would the assignment be held legal? J. H. H.

REPLY.

If it can be proved that at the time of the assignment he lacked mental capacity for such a business transaction, the assignment would be void.

ASSIGNS POLICY BENEFITS.

Chicago, June 30.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A man signed over some insurance policies to another man from whom he had borrowed money. The assignment was made out on a regular form and the policies were such that the beneficiary could be changed at any time without notice to the beneficiary. The man from whom I borrowed the money was taken ill and was confined to a hospital, where examination showed that he had paresis. If the assignment is contested in court, would the assignment be held legal? J. H. H.

REPLY.

If it can be proved that at the time of the assignment he lacked mental capacity for such a business transaction, the assignment would be void.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 5, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Not only the United States but its colonies as well celebrated the Fourth of July, and the boom of the cannon, the snap of the firecracker and the glare of the fireworks for the first time in history encircled the whole globe in honor of Independence day. It was a memorable celebration, the first of the greater United States, now at peace with the world and with its own dependencies. Even the natives of the far-off islands entered into the spirit of the American holiday and vied with the small boy at home in efforts to make noise.

CHICAGO.—Following its custom, The Tribune this morning presents reports from all over the country showing the number of persons killed and injured as a result of celebrating the Fourth of July. Fatalities totaled 19; there were 1,611 injured and the fire loss was $50,700.

CHICAGO.—Congratulations from heat made a new record yesterday for the present summer. At 2 o'clock this morning twenty-three cases had been reported. Not only were people overcome, but in at least two cases the result was fatal. While most of the victims will recover several were reported in serious condition and may be added to the death roll later. Only two deaths were reported.

GLOUCESTER, Mass.—Prof. John Fiske of Cambridge, the famous lecturer and eminent American historian, died today at the Hawthorne Inn, East Gloucester. The cause of death was excessive heat, from which he had suffered for two days. He was 53 years old.

CHICAGO.—Prof. Franklin W. Flak, forty years of age, died today at the Chicago Theological seminary and for thirteen years its president, died yesterday at his residence, 582 West Adams street. The extreme heat is believed to have hastened his death, which was known to be, under the most favorable conditions, a matter of only a short time. He was 51 years old.

Summerville avenue along Clarendon avenue has been closed for parking purposes. Men in charge promises to keep it clean and obviate any cause for complaint.

THOMAS H. BYRNE, Superintendent of Streets.

PLAT TILES.

Chicago, June 30.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Two weeks after buying a couple of tiles they went bad. I attribute this to poor construction. The tiles from whom I bought them gave me a guarantee for 15,000 miles. He tells me that did not mean anything and will not make any kind of adjustment, although he admits that the tiles are defective. Can I get judgment against him?

REPLY.

If you can prove the guarantee, we see no reason why it cannot be enforced. Obviously the proof would be easier if it were in writing.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 5, 1916.

PARIS.—The Thimblefoot work, around which some of the bloodiest fighting of the war has taken place, has been captured by the Germans for the fourth time, according to the official French statement. Heavy fighting continued on the Verdun front last night. In the north the steady pressure of the Franco-British offensive continues to be exerted along the entire line of operations, and the allies continued to make gains.

WASHINGTON.—With the receipt of a pacific and conciliatory note from Carranza, administration officials expressed confidence that war between the United States and Mexico is now a remote possibility. The note is said to concede the contention of the United States that conditions along the border, by reason of the bandit raids, have been intolerable, and extends strong protest against Carranza's refusal to government to restore order and protect American territory from further raids.

MEXICO CITY.—It is reported that Gen. Pershing's American forces are retiring north from Colonia Duhalan. It is said that all the American troops will have left Mexico by July 17.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—The fighting First Illinois cavalry is on the border. The first section, under Col. Milton J. Foreman, reached Brownsville at 11:20 a. m. The second, under Maj. R. R. McCormick, arrived two hours later, and the third, under Lieut. Col. Walcott, at 3:20 p. m.

CHICAGO.—Dr. Leonard A. Low, a surgeon with offices in the Marshall Field annex building, and a widely known Mason, was instantly killed when his new automobile, which he was unconsciously to his death, plunged thirty feet into a creek just north of Waukegan.

CHICAGO.—Fearing the epidemic of infantile paralysis which is sweeping New York City may be communicated to Chicago, Health Commissioner Joseph P. Dill Robertson directed eighteen city physicians to watch every incoming train from the east. All babies arriving here will be special objects of the watch. Twenty-five children died in New York from the disease during the twenty-four hour period ending at 6 o'clock last night.

CHICAGO.—Reports received by The Tribune from over the entire country show twelve dead and 400 injured as the toll of the Fourth of July celebrations, as against nineteen killed and 903 injured in 1915.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

GOOD-BY.

Good-by, old friend, good-by. Let not our friendship die a lingering death With slackening pulse and slowly failing breath, If it must die. Let it not die by inches, starved and frozen By mere neglect. If you have wisely chosen To make an end, let no mistaken kindness Prolong the pain, and no deliberate blindness Darken our sky. But with one swift stab mercifully slay it. A word will be enough, if you can say it. I shall not cry. What you would kill, kill quickly, without shrinking, And I shall take the blow as kindness, thinking How good you are, how gentle, as always. You need not do it bitterly. Just say, "Good-by, old friend, good-by."

Ed Stone.

THE FOURTH OF JULY is the time to revisit our national shrines. The time to go back where Liberty was rocked in its little cradle, to revisit the homes of the Minute Men and the other patriots who stood with undaunted breasts against foreign invasion and usurpation. Come, then, children, let us go and walk the very ground where our brave sires of old once walked, let us look at the very houses in which they lived, and let us see the identical windows out of which they made faces at the haughty British as they went by and stuck their tongues out at old General Gage. Let us talk to their great-grandsons and their great-granddaughters and hear from their own lips the story of those splendid days when this land of the free and the home of the brave was young.

The best way to do it is to recite the story of our trip around Boston two weeks ago. We decided that Paul Revere's house would be the best place to go. Paul was one of the worst disturbers the British had to contend with. He was the boy who made the ride that will live forever—

A hurry of hoofs in the village street,
A shape in the moonlight, a bulk in the dark—
That was all! And yet through the gloom and the light—
The fate of a nation was riding that night.

And not far away from Paul's house is Christ Church, "Old North," which the guide books said was still standing, and not far from that was Capt. Paul's burial ground, where many of our revolutionary dead are buried and where the British planted a battery to pour shot into Charleston during the battle of Bunker Hill.

We had a hard time finding Paul Revere's old house. We walked down Hanover street to the end, but we couldn't see it. We had studied the picture in the guide book and we knew we would recognize it. We saw plenty of old houses that dated from the pre-revolutionary period, but Paul's house wasn't among them. Then we commenced to ask the descendants of the revolutionary ancestors that we met along the way where Paul's house was. The sturdy descendants of the heroes of Bunker Hill were as ignorant of the location of the home of Paul Revere as we were. Most of those we met merely shook their heads and said, "No spik Anglies."

One descendant of the revolutionary forefathers, however, helped us quite a bit. We asked him the question that we had asked two hundred times in vain up and down Hanover street, and he said, "Whooa dissa guy Paula de Rivero!"

"Why, you remember," we said hopefully.

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere,
On the eighteenth of April—

"Shura, mikkey," said the descendant of a long line of revolutionary forebears, "Paula de Rivero is a pollicymans. Iish pollicymans? Alla pollicymans Iish."

We said we thought it was the wrong Revere. The one we wanted was dead. "Himma daid?" asked the sturdy American. "Eef himma daid? what for you tryin to finda deem? You tryin to kidda me? Go along I giva you da swifta pusha in da face."

We left that American hurriedly. He gave us a malevolent look as we went away. Then we noticed that we received more malevolent looks all up and down Hanover street. Very plainly our intrusion was resented. We realized that we should have taken out Italian passport papers before we invaded the shrine of our forefathers. We asked the next sturdy Yankee we met if there was an American consul in Hanover street, but he didn't spik Anglies either.

In despair we turned down Prince street and into a little park, and there, right before us, was Paul Revere's house. We went in and for a while we were back in the old revolutionary days. There was Paul's house, finished very much as it had been the night we went forth.

Ready to ride and spread the alarm
Through every Middlesex village and farm,
For the country folk to be up and to arm.

There was the old fireplace in the front room, with Paul's favorite chair pulled up to the fire and a great pewter mug hanging from the shelf in which Paul, not dreaming of the days when Mr. Volstead was to descend upon the land, must have brewed himself mulled ale before he went to bed. We saw Paul's bedroom upstairs and the four poster bed that Paul sneaked back into after he had started all the trouble out Concord way and the little diamond shape window panes out of which Paul used to sass the British army when it tramped past.

Then we went over to Old North, where Paul's friend had set the lantern in the high church tower. We blundered around for a while, but by carefully consulting the map in the guide book we finally found Salem street, and then walked along that, until, there, right before us, was the shrine of every American patriot—Old North.

He said to his friend, "If the British march By land or sea from the town tonight, Hang a lantern aloft in the belfry arch— Of the North church tower as a signal light—"

A lot of little descendants of the sturdy old revolutionary stock were hanging around the front of the church, apparently looking for tourists. They descended on us like a swarm of seven year locusts, and each one screamed loudly for the privilege of being our guide around the church. We picked out the one that we thought came the nearest to looking like Paul Revere and asked him to tell us all about it.

"Alla rite," said the sturdy little American, "deena de church is where Paula de Rivero make da ride. He say to his fren, 'Dees Breesha guys getta too damma fresh. Eef they makka da walk arounda tonite you putta da lantern up in theesa tower an wen I see da light I go tella Georga da Wash. Fina man Georga da Wash, he getta his gang an likka de Breesha. So daatta nita de Breesha getta fresh an marcha all rounn an Paula de Rivero he go tella Georga da Wash an Georga da Wash getta hees gang an he fighta de Breesha an run em all into de Backs Bay

MOOSE GREETED BY 1,300 ORPHAN WARDS ON FOURTH

Senator Capper's Speech Read at Mooseheart.

(Picture on back page.) Thousands of delegates to the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Loyal Order of Moose, which is in session in Chicago, in a great pilgrimage yesterday visited Mooseheart, their little "city of concrete happiness" a few miles west of the city, where they celebrated Independence day with the orphans who have found a home there.

It was estimated that 25,000 to 30,000 men, women, and children were at the celebration. They went through some of the rites of the order, they dedicated buildings, attended the graduating exercises of a Mooseheart High school class of 20 girls and 16 boys, and at the last listened to the speech which was to have been delivered by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas.

Speech of Capper Read. Because of the delay in the adjournment of congress until Saturday Senator Capper found it impossible to be there and his speech, addressed to the graduating youths and girls, was read for him by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, director general of the order. The senator in his message bade the young men and women to start out upon the highway of life with courage and confidence. "You will find," he told them, "that there are as many opportunities today as ever existed."

He said the only failure that is dangerous is the failure of courage, and he urged them to retain their spirit of hope and ambition in the face of adversities which he said would come to them just as they come to all. He told them that the satisfaction and happiness of creativeness contribute more to the enjoyment of life than the accumulation of wealth. And he said they had had singular opportunity to learn early some valuable lessons in their life at Mooseheart.

Learn Blessing of Toil. "You have had a wonderful opportunity," he continued, "of acquiring the art of getting along agreeably with your fellow creatures, while at the same time maintaining your own individuality and purpose. Another thing that will surely help you is the fact that you have learned not to scorn physical toil."

And as to the acquisition of riches: "I have never known wealth to bring any great, or real, or lasting happiness to any one. This does not mean, of course, that all wealthy people are unhappy, but the fact is that the possession of money or property is nothing compared to the pleasure to be derived from having created some tangible thing for the service of other men or some instrumentality exercising an influence for good."

Senator Capper said that thrift is the hope of the future. He stated it is the only means for a majority of the people to make any substantial progress in life.

Confer Fellowship Degree. In the morning the fellowship degree of the Moose was conferred upon 500 of the delegates, representing as many lodges, in Roosevelt auditorium in Mooseheart, Secretary Davis and Nor-

JEFFERSON'S IDEALS PATH FOR AMERICA, BISHOP MANNING SAYS

Charlottesville, Va., July 4.—(AP)—The ideals of Thomas Jefferson were pointed as a path for modern America by Bishop William T. Manning of New York in an address at ceremonies beside Jefferson's grave today under the auspices of the Sesqui-centennial of American independence and the Thomas Jefferson centennial commission of the United States. The statesman died 100 years ago today.

Bishop Manning refuted as "foolish" any charge that Jefferson was indifferent to religion, and asserted that the spirit of the great exponent of democracy has embodied itself in the life of America more than that of any other man except Lincoln.

"Among all Jefferson's great services," said Bishop Manning, "his name stands like a beacon to warn us against all forms of bigotry, intolerance, and discrimination against men because of their religious beliefs."

man J. Heyd, supreme dictator, and Albert J. Cassedy, past supreme dictator, officiating.

There was a dedication of several new buildings—Mooseheart now has 66 buildings on its more than 1,300 acres—and the breaking ground for several others. One of the points of interest was the baby village, six buildings erected in quadrangle form, where 64 orphans from one to six years old are being raised under homelike conditions.

40,000 SEE 'BIRTH OF CHICAGO' IN OLD INDIAN DAYS (Picture on back page.) Chicago's sesqui-centennial tribute, "The Birth of Chicago," being staged at Soldiers' field in conjunction with the Moose convention, drew 40,000 spectators at its performance last night. The pageant, with several hundred American Indians as performers, depicts the history of the redskin in this region up to the Port Dearborn massacre.

Of special attraction last night was the induction into the Chippewa tribe of the five south park commissioners who built Soldiers' field. The five, Michael L. Igou, Bernard E. Sunny, Louis J. Behan, Edward J. Kelly, and John Bain, were taken into the tribe and each given Indian names.

At the opening of last night's performance, Commissioner Kelly, president of the board, addressed the audience on the significance of July 4 and praised the historical value of the pageant. Today's performances will close the five day exhibition of "The Birth of Chicago."

BUFFALO BILL'S SISTER RECOUNTS THRILLS OF 1846

Visits City En Route to Family Reunion.

Pictures of the early west, of prairie schooners, border outrages, Indian massacres, stagecoaches, pony expresses, and brave men and women flashed into the tales told yesterday by Mrs. Julia Cody Goodman, 83 years old, the only living sister of Col. William (Buffalo Bill) Cody, who arrived in Chicago from her home in Alhambra, Cal.

The time of Mrs. Goodman's story was 1846 and 47, the place, the Nebraska Kansas wilderness; the characters, American pioneers who helped make their country's history in that territory; and the leading actor, Buffalo Bill himself.

How He Won His Name. "After 1868, when he killed over 4,000 buffalo on the hills of Nebraska, Willie [she called her brother this] was known as Buffalo Bill," Mrs. Goodman said. "He killed more buffalo than any other white man."

With Mr. and Mrs. Hilman Cody, 2626 Lincoln street, Evanston, Mrs. Goodman left last night for Cleveland, O., to attend the yearly meeting of the Cody family organization, which numbers about 100 from all over the country. They plan to erect a Cody museum near Cody, Wyo., dedicated to the memory of Buffalo Bill and preserving relics of pioneer frontier life.

Crossed Plains at Age of 12. "Buffalo Bill first crossed the plains at the age of 12, when, scouting for Indians, he guarded a supply caravan from Kansas to Fort Laramie, Wyo.," his sister said. "He rode a mule and earned $25 a month. At 15 he joined the pony express, the youngest rider in the Waddell outfit. As chief of scouts for the Seventh U. S. cavalry he was first at the scene of the Custer massacre in 1876."

Isaac Cody, their father, was the first white settler in Kansas in 1854. Mrs. Goodman said. He staked his claim the day Kansas was opened to settlement. But in spite of his son's watchful care, he was stabbed to death in 1857 by border ruffians employed by Missouri slave holders to murder the abolitionists.

Duggan Makes Another Hop Toward Argentina PARA, Brazil, July 4.—(AP)—Bernardo Duggan, Argentine airman, and his companions, Eduardo Olivero and Ernesto Campanelli, have moved a bit closer to their goal, Buenos Aires, in completing another lap in their flight from New York. They alighted at Ponta da Caridade on Caviana island, Amazon estuary. The flyers had left Maraca island yesterday morning. They are now awaiting the arrival of the tug Pelorus in order to refuel and to continue the journey.

U. S. C. PREXY FINDS COLLEGES BACK TO PRE-WAR STANDING

American colleges regained during the last year the last vestige of learning and culture for the first time since the world war, in the opinion of Dr. Rufus B. von Kleinsmid, president of the University of Southern California, who arrived in Chicago yesterday from Los Angeles.

"Eagerness for research and scientific discovery has never been so pronounced as during the college year just closed," Dr. von Kleinsmid said. "Young people everywhere are thirsting for knowledge and are willing to sacrifice for a university education. This is one of the most healthy signs of the times."

Dr. von Kleinsmid also remarked on the great interest taken everywhere in athletics and commended this branch of collegiate training. With his wife and daughter, Betty, a junior at his university, he went to the home of Martin V. Beiger at Mishawauka, Ind. They plan to leave for the east the last of this week.

CLAIMS CANADA'S PARLIAMENT WAS ILLEGALLY ENDED

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) Ottawa, Ont., July 4.—Canada's hectic political situation of the last week took on a new complexion tonight when former Premier Mackenzie King raised the issue that parliament had not been legally dissolved. The former premier contends the method of dissolving parliament was contrary to constitutional usage and law. He asserts the way dissolution was staged by Governor General Byng and Premier Arthur Meighen would not be tolerated in Great Britain. Mr. King's followers intimate there may be interesting developments. Parliament was dissolved by page boys notifying members that their presence was no longer required.

Chicago Youth Drowned in Swim at Channel Lake

Fred Zietzen, 22 years old, 4330 West Cullerton street, lost his life while swimming in Channel lake, just west of Waukegan, yesterday. He was passing the week-end in Waukegan with friends. The body has not been recovered.

HEAT STRICKEN, DROWNED. Waukegan, Wis., July 4.—(Special.)—Overcome by heat while swimming in a flooded stone quarry, Carl Henning, 17, sank and was drowned.

WOMAN HUNTED AS AN IMPOSTOR IN $2,500 FRAUD

Posing as the wife of Mayor John Davis of Oakland, Cal., a woman known as Mrs. Eugenia Anderson Rogers obtained $2,500 in cash, jewels, and clothing from Mrs. Estelle Halpern, 8402 North Central Park avenue, according to Sgt. James Huppert and William Granger of the detective bureau, who yesterday obtained a warrant for the woman's arrest.

According to the detectives, Mrs. Rogers, shortly after being introduced to Mrs. Halpern, confided in her that she was the wife of the Oakland mayor, but that she was traveling incognito. After obtaining $1,200 in cash, $1,000 worth of jewels, and clothing worth $200 from Mrs. Halpern, the woman disappeared. When the police wired Mayor Davis, he replied that the woman was an impostor.

13 Killed, 50 Injured as Storm Hits Berlin Suburb

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) BERLIN, July 4.—Thirteen persons, mostly women, were killed and fifty others were injured during a thunderstorm which passed over Berlin this afternoon. The scene of the disaster was the Woltersdorfer Schloz, a favorite resort on a lake outside the capital. Hundreds of persons rushed inside a covered bowling alley. The roof of the alley collapsed.

Hunt Woman Who Left Baby in Hotel Room

(Picture on back page.) Police of the South Chicago station are seeking a young woman who registered yesterday at the Exchange hotel, 2924 East 92nd street, was assigned to a room and a little later drove away in an automobile, leaving a boy about 2 months old on the bed. She gave her name as Mrs. J. H. Jones, of Detroit. The automobile, however, bore a Missouri license plate.

SHOT BY WAITER IN CAFE BATTLE; CONDITION GRAVE

Charles Trembley of 11153 Vernon avenue, who is said to be a brother of Frankie Moran, a prize fighter, is in a critical condition at the Pullman hospital of wounds received early yesterday when he was shot by a waiter in a south side restaurant.

Trembley walked into the San Carlo cafe, 6321 Cottage Grove avenue, according to witnesses, in an intoxicated condition. He is alleged to have drawn an automatic pistol, flourished it and then tried to shoot the waiter, Sam Capelo, 4744 Drexel boulevard. The witnesses said that the trigger snapped twice.

Capelo then ran into the kitchen and seized a shotgun. Returning, he aimed on Trembley, dozens of small shot taking effect in the latter's head and shoulders. Capelo was held.

Policeman Shoots Gary Husband After Quarrel

Gary, Ind., July 4.—(Special.)—Shot by Policeman Louis Manalan, Alfredo Rivera, 1113 Washington street, is near death here today following an affray in Rivera's home. Police answered a call sent in by Rivera's wife after a family fight. As the police entered Rivera's home he drew a German mauser and fired, but the trigger snapped on an empty chamber just as the policeman fired. His bullet pierced Rivera's chest near the heart.

COOLIDGE STAYS INDOORS ON HIS 54TH BIRTHDAY

To Visit Sesquicentennial
Exposition Today.

Washington, D. C., July 4.—(AP)—A drizzling downpour and his desire to rest in preparation for his trip to Philadelphia tomorrow led President Coolidge to observe his fifty-fourth birthday today in the seclusion of the White House.

Beyond attending church in the morning with Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, the President remained at home. Frank W. Stearns of Boston, his intimate friend, was at the White House for the day, but left tonight for Boston, and there were no other guests received.

Son Goes to Summer School.
It was the last day for some time that the family would be together, as John is to leave tomorrow for Burlington, Vt., where he will attend summer school at the University of Vermont.

Leaving Washington early tomorrow, the President and Mrs. Coolidge will go by special train to Philadelphia, where at noon the chief executive will speak at the sesquicentennial exposition. The program includes their participation in a parade, a tour of the exposition grounds, and the exercises at the stadium.

To Visit Independence Hall.
After a private luncheon with Mayor Kendrick, Mr. Coolidge will inspect the new Philadelphia-Clenden bridge, stopping en route to visit Independence hall and Christ church, and will then go to his train, returning to Washington by early evening.

Mr. Coolidge will be accompanied to Philadelphia by Secretary Everett Sanders and others of his official staff. Under present plans it is expected that the President will leave for his vacation in the Adirondacks Tuesday afternoon.

SUSPECT SLAYER OF WIFE ALSO MURDERED GIRL

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

VIENNA, Austria, July 4.—Following the arrest of J. Wimpfing, a butcher, who confessed to killing his wife and cutting her body to bits, the police began work on the theory that he killed his illegitimate daughter, Caroline, who disappeared a year ago. It is claimed Wimpfing, maintained overfriendly relations with the girl. Her mother informed the police she thought Wimpfing murdered the girl.

After part of the body of a woman was discovered 'suspended under a bridge over the Danube, Friday, the police arrested Wimpfing. Police discovered several packages containing other parts of the body in his home.

Chicagoan Rescues Wife Pulled Overboard by Fish

Hayward, Wis., July 4.—J. Clark Dean, 233 E. Walton place, Chicago, saved his wife from drowning after she had been pulled overboard by a twenty pound musky at Dittich Liberty camp here.

Assassin's Shots Unnoted on Fourth; Find Body Later

New York, July 4.—(Special.)—A fusillade of shots early this morning awoke residents in the vicinity of West 215th street and Seaman avenue. Attributing the shooting to an early ushering in of the Fourth, no attention was paid to the noise. Almost ten hours later the body of a man believed by the police to be an Italian feud victim, riddled with bullets, was found wedged in the underbrush of a small grove at 215th street and Seaman avenue. Five bullet wounds were found.

ON TIME!

Business today runs on schedule. Time is a vitally important factor. Whether it is for business or pleasure we like to travel on time—and the quicker and more conveniently we can get to our destinations, the better we are satisfied.

The motor bus has taken a definite place as a needed transportation unit and the reason for its great popularity lies in its flexibility, convenience and reliability.

But in order to meet these modern demands it must be powered with a motor that can be depended upon always—that will stand up under the rugged demands of bus service.

Red Seal Continental Motors are the choice of many leading bus operators, because they recognize that the motor is the background of dependable bus service and that Continental Motors eliminate the hazards of inadequate power.

Furthermore Red Seal Continental Bus Motors are built to those specifications which years of experience have proven are necessary to a service which meets today's demands. With Continental Motors the operator secures that smoothness of operation which goes so far toward passenger comfort.

Because of a thoroughly trained organization, years of experience and unlimited resources, Continental occupies an outstanding position in the field of transportation—a position which can only be attained and held through genuine merit of its product.

Mrs. Emmons Blaine Leads Secluded Life in Lake Forest Home

BY NANCY R.

No prominent, distinguished and important woman ever lived so utterly to herself and remote from her contemporaries as Mrs. Emmons Blaine. Probably not half a dozen persons outside of her own household know that she is at the moment living in the Lake Forest home of her mother, the late Madam McCormick. The house is situated in a grove of primeval trees, on a place of property bounded by Sheridan, Mayflower and Illinois roads.

It was a gift Mrs. Blaine made her mother eight or ten years ago. She built the house, a spacious mansion, and laid out the grounds entirely unknown to her mother, and then took the latter out there and told her that it was hers.

Madam McCormick, one of the most remarkable and lovely women Chicago has ever known, spent most of her declining years and died there, three years ago today, July 5, 1923.

Among the landscape features of the place is an American version of a Japanese tea house, perched on the brink of a green ravine, a delightfully secluded retreat. Another is a stone walled garden, filled with climbing roses and other flowers that are mirrored in a glassy pool. A sheltered place at one end provides a pleasant nook for a quiet chat or a cup of tea.

The many winding paths that give access to the various parts of the place are paved with cement, and are wide enough to permit the passage of one of those two passenger electrically run chairs such as were used at the Panama fair at San Diego twelve years ago. Madam McCormick used to get great pleasure in riding smoothly, silently and not a fast but about the place in this comfortable conveyance.

A gate at the southeast corner of the grove opened directly across from the entrance gates at Ringwood, the Lake Forest estate of her eldest son, Cyrus H. McCormick, so she could extend her drives into his grounds.

Madam McCormick's country house was the scene of the wedding of her son, Harold McCormick and Madam Ganna Walska, which took place on a cold, snowy early winter day some five years ago. The great iron gates were closed to the public for the occasion, specially to the press, but Harold McCormick ever kind hearted, brought to the shivering newspaper contingent hot coffee and food, and sent them away swearing that he was a mighty good fellow.

Day's News in Society

For those fortunate humans who enjoy membership in various of the country clubs, here and about Chicago, the fourth of July means a restful day in the open air and green lawns, leisurely rounds of golf or sets of tennis, maybe a lark for the children, and always a sociable dinner and dance in the evening.

The Glenview Golf club has made preparations for a lively day. There will be golf in the morning and afternoon, caddy games, approaching, driving and putting contests, a luncheon and card game this noon, a flag raising ceremony at 3 o'clock, games for the children this afternoon, and a dinner and dance this evening. Members made ready for the occasion for the evening include Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Howard, Frank Murray, H. I. Robinson, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Glover, and Mrs. Scott Burn.

At the Evanston Golf club, they are making a special effort to entertain the youngsters. There will be a Punch and Judy show, a flag raising, a caddy game, singing, and a fireworks show this evening. The elders will play golf and tennis all day.

Indian Hill's summer holiday buffet dinner dances are always well attended and popular. Members who are to entertain or be present include Mr. and Mrs. Hesiger A. de Windt, the Bucks, Ingham Chandlers, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilder, Mrs. James N. Rawleigh, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Durham, and Mrs. S. S. Holden. Indian Hill is to have golf and tennis matches all day, too.

The Chicago Golf club at Wheaton had its regular weekly dinner dance Saturday evening, and fireworks last night to celebrate the holiday. Members will play today for the president's cup, for the Frederick H. Bartlett trophy, and the Thomas Miller Memorial cup. The club and many of the cottages are filled with guests for the weekend.

Exmoor also had its dinner dance Saturday evening, and there are to be a number of interesting golf matches today. The qualifying round of the club and class championships is to be played off, and 16 players are to play a qualifying round for the Fullerton cup contest.

At Oakview, the tennis courts will be occupied, and the John H. Hamline Memorial cup, a choice score cup for 18 hole play, and the Bland Ballard Memorial cup are to be competed for. The Chicago Yacht club is to have an "Independence Day" regatta, with a race at the Monroe street club house this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan William MacChesney of 568 Hawthorne place, have returned from Pottstown, Pa., where they attended the graduation exercises of their son, Alfred Brunson MacChesney III. The MacChesneys are spending the summer at their country place, Riverhill Farm, northwest of Lake Forest.

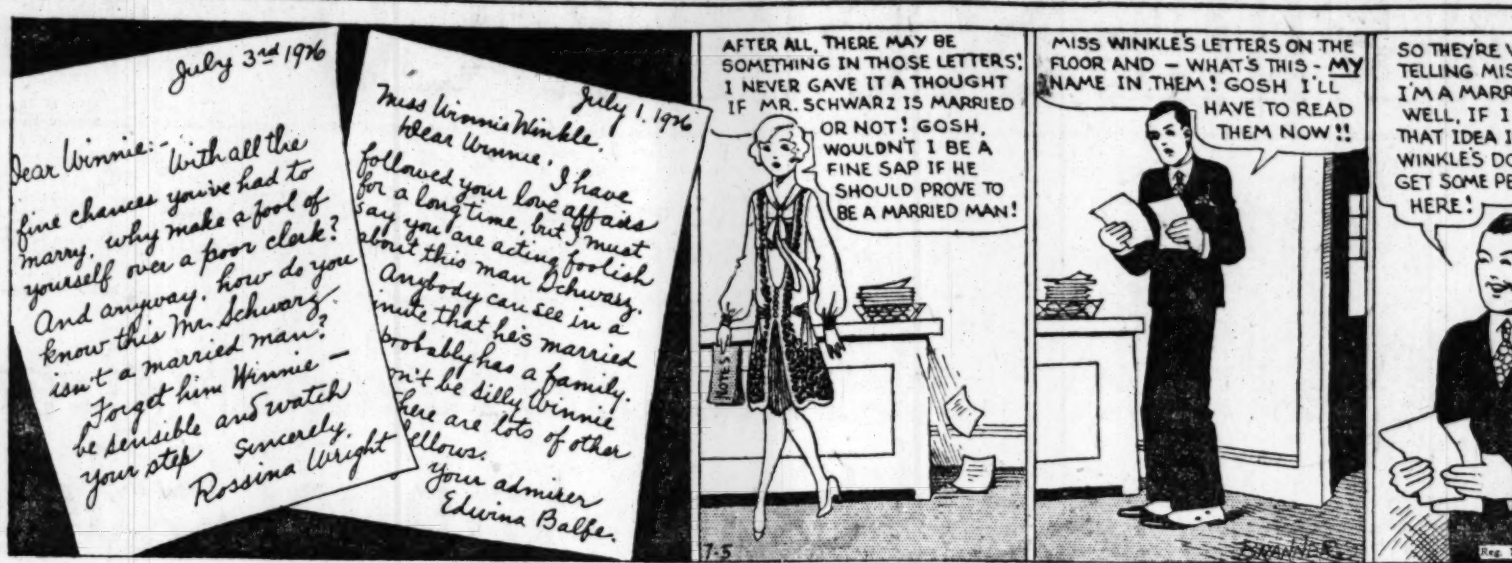

James H. Tatum of 4901 Kimbark avenue has gone to Waukegan on Cape Cod to spend the week-end with Mrs. Tatum and James Jr., who are there for the summer.

Miss Helen Hurley gave a picnic yesterday afternoon in the woods of the Hurley estate at Wheaton for three college chums from the Finch school, New York city, who are here guests this week. They are Miss Nancy Fulton of Yale College, W. Va., Miss Charlotte Coughlin of Nutley, N. J., and Miss Elizabeth Dunting of Wilkesbarre, Pa. Miss Hurley gave a dance for her visitors Saturday evening at the Chicago Golf club. She is the daughter of E. N. Hurley, former president of the United States shipping board.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Harold David Squires of La Grange announce the marriage on July 2 of their sister, Mrs. Hazel Squires-Rate, to John P. Ahrens Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Ahrens are to reside at the Edgewater Beach hotel. Mr. Ahrens is on the advertising staff of Liberty magazine.

BRIDE

Mrs. Leland Hobart Danforth.

The wedding of Miss Elizabeth Danforth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Danforth of Kenilworth, Ill., to the Rev. Leland Hobart Danforth, son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Danforth of Kenilworth, took place on June 22.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 4.—(Special.)—The secretary of state and Mrs. Kellogg, who returned a few days ago from their home in St. Paul after entertaining the Swedish crown prince and crown princess, departed today for Charlottesville, Va. The secretary will make the principal speech tomorrow at the dedication of Monticello, the home of Jefferson, as a public shrine, being maintained by the Jefferson Memorial association.

Mrs. Frederick McCormick-Goodheart has arrived in Bar Harbor and opened her villa there where she will be joined by her son, Leander McCormick-Goodheart and crown princess, departed today for Charlottesville, Va. The secretary will make the principal speech tomorrow at the dedication of Monticello, the home of Jefferson, as a public shrine, being maintained by the Jefferson Memorial association.

Word has been received here of the marriage of Miss Edith Cotton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Cotton of Thomas Bladen, Jr., of this city and New York, on June 9 in Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Mr. Bladen's first wife was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, who is now Mrs. Wilmet Lewis, formerly Miss Ethel Noyes.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Metz of Kenilworth announce the engagement of their daughter, Beatrice, to William Parish White, son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. White of Wilmet, Ill. The wedding is to take place in October.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK
BY JANE EDDINGTON.
Peeling and Paring.
A correspondent in rather an old-fashioned and aristocratic hand, while signing "An Admirer," writes as follows: "It seems but fair and reasonable to call attention to an error in your making in your published articles on cookery, for several times in the past you have used the word peel for pare. You cannot peel a raw potato or apple, but you can pare it (look in the dictionary and you'll find I am right). Also, in your recipe for Johnny cakes this morning you use the word bake for fry. We cannot bake on the top of the stove, but we can fry. We can only bake in the oven."

I am asked to look this up also, but some of us do not follow all the conventions; besides, in Scotland, they do say "Bake on the griddle." I like to use "bake" partly because "fried cakes" are not griddle cakes, in my usage. "It always disturbs me when reading your articles—which to my own thinking are excellent—to meet with this misuse of words, often, no doubt, to it, I am sure, will fix it upon your mind. We all of us get into habits, and if some kind friend—can care for us—will only take the trouble to mention a slight correction, we should consider that friend worth while. And now I dare not identify myself after having taken this personal liberty, but be assured I shall go on every day benefiting myself by your articles."

It is undoubtedly modern to say "pare potatoes," and I shall indeed remember to do it, but the old books say "peel," and I have every reason to believe that it is an old-fashioned use and a modern colloquialism. An old recipe begins thus: "Wash, peel and slice potatoes." And all recipes seemingly say "peel" for removing the skins from potatoes boiled also in their jackets, when they might say pull off. I have seen that done and have said "peel" all my long life.

This Sort of Boy Likes 'Em, Leaves 'Em, and Talks About 'Em

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am 18 and in love with a boy one year older. He has been going with another girl, but tired of her and went to seek others. He told me most of his secrets, and told me many uncomplimentary things about this one particular girl. It has been a year now since he gave her up and started going with me, but he does still see her when he thinks I won't find out. If I ever say anything to him about it, he declares up and down he won't go back to her. I have a strong liking for him. I would like to hate him, but that seems impossible.—H. B."

I wouldn't spend any time trying to hate any one, H. B.—not even a boy who'd be guilty of talking about girls, although of all types of men he is the least to be thought well of. I wonder why boys are so frequently guilty of this breach of a gentleman's code. No one admires them for their confidences if they include telltale stories on a woman. They cannot think highly of themselves if they ever stop to think of the unfitness of telling one side of the story only, which is what men do when they talk about girls. They never admit in their confidential outpourings how they may have led a girl on to do things they feel privileged later to talk about.

It isn't fair play. And, as I say, no gentleman will talk about a girl no matter what her name is. A gentleman knows full well he can either take 'em or leave 'em—these girls whose conduct might justifiably give rise to talk—and if he takes 'em it is up to him to keep his lips sealed. Perhaps your boy friend, H. B., doesn't understand this gentleman's code and a few words of enlightenment from you would save him from committing himself again to his discredit. You have a right to suspect that he is making confidences to the other girl and in all probability saying things about you that are not flattering.

Stage Patriotic Program.
The Gardell Park Business Men's association will stage a patriotic celebration at the Gardell Park stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, this evening at 8 o'clock. Fireworks and several acts of vaudeville are on the program. A ten piece band will furnish the music.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each child's saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unsolicited contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunt Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

It was during the flu epidemic in the town of A.—The talk of the hour was of the various proclamations of the mayor. Mother had charge of several emergency hospitals and remained at one each night. During the epidemic we rarely saw her. One day we heard the following conversation between my two small sisters, ages 5 and 7:

"Why doesn't mother ever come home any more?" asked the baby.

"My goodness, Frances, don't you know mother is the night mayor of A.—" was the reply. Mrs. B. P.

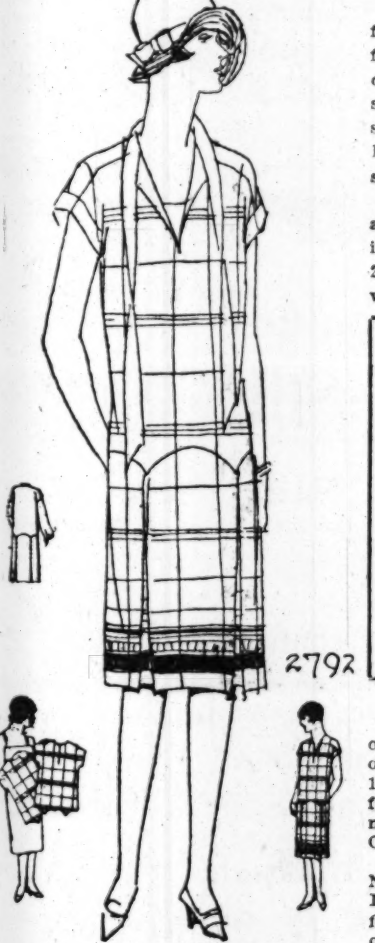

In the front room of an old home, a small girl was lying on the floor screaming. Her sister was practicing military music at the piano. Suddenly the child sat up and said, "Sister, sister, please stop playing a minute. I want my mammy to hear me cry!" E. F. H.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
MISS T. R.: YOU WOULD HAVE a better appetite for your lunch if you would take a ten or fifteen minute walk before eating, and the food would digest much better. This is especially true of people in sedentary occupations. You would not be so inclined to drowsiness either, if after eating you took a further walk of ten or fifteen minutes.

PEG W.: YOU ARE WITHIN a few pounds of standard weight. Age 18, five feet two, standard weight is 115 pounds. You have a set of twelve exercises in "My Youth Preserver," which are just the exercises for you. Send a stamped addressed envelope for them.

New York, July 4.—[Special.]—Most of the financial forecasts at the beginning of the year were based on expectation that, as the year advanced, financial conditions would be better in the United States and better in Europe.

There was reasonable ground for these predictions. The wave of American prosperity began to recede, but not enough to make a receding movement probable unless some new and unexpected stimulus were provided in the development of events.

Europe, on the contrary, was emerging from a period of reaction. A season of abundant harvests on the continent had removed the preceding season's handicap of short crops and a consequent increase in the surplus of importations.

French public men were at least fighting to put the currency in order. Italy's budget was balanced. Belgium was trying the experiment of a stabilized franc.

The mid-year period has been reached and expectations concerning both the American and European situation are widely different from those of six months ago.

German trade, however, does not revive. France has fallen into what seems to the markets a hopeless predicament.

England has had a successful year, but the balance of trade has been in deficit. The European prospect, taken as a whole, is as bleak as it has been for some time.

CHRYSLER ACTION
HITS INSURANCE
AS SALES HELP

Opposition rises to Wholesale Plan.

Abandonment of the Chrysler-Palmetto plan of insurance service on July 1 has served to discourage wholesale insurance projects on the part of automobile makers, according to a recent survey of representative plants in the Detroit district.

Under the plan purchasers of Chrysler cars were insured against loss from theft or fire for the period of one year.

That would be true, indeed, even on the doctrine of annual probabilities, but in Europe's case the fact that government and people are working hard to surmount the reactionary influences, enduring taxation which would have been unworkable before the war, is the best assurance of ultimate success.

WHEAT MOVING
FAST TO MARKET
HOLIDAY TODAY

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

All the markets in the United States will be closed today, but Winnipeg and Liverpool will be open.

When traders are looking for lower prices, unless there is a letup in the southwestern movement and a decidedly better demand, although millers and exporters have taken wheat freely in the southwest the last week.

Cash wheat premiums have declined in all markets, and a large amount of wheat has been absorbed by mills and exporters in the southwest.

Average of the winter wheat crop estimate is 562,000,000 bu., against 545,000,000 bu. for the 1924-25 season.

URGES DISPLAY OF INSURANCE
IN SHOP WINDOWS

BY CHARLES BARTON.

Place insurance in the show window. Arrange the business that it will receive more than passing notice.

Most of the troubles of insurance, the speaker said, are due to the fact that people in general know little or nothing about the beneficial social and economic phases of the business.

It is true, he pointed out, that insurance is being bought in ever increasing quantities, but the purchases are made with little understanding.

Insurance men are learning that the public attitude is one of the chief factors in the proper solution of present day underwriting problems.

Will Prevent Losses.

Excessive underwriting losses over a period of years, Mr. Ives said, have caused fire and casualty insurance concerns to indulge in considerable introspection to find out what is wrong and where the blame lies.

WARNERS HOLDERS OF
INTEGRITY POLICIES TO GET COVERAGE

Policy holders of the Integrity Mutual Casualty company, 220 South State street, have been notified by the receiver, Mr. C. B. Buck, that they should immediately take steps to secure a new policy of coverage.

Under the plan purchasers of Chrysler cars were insured against loss from theft or fire for the period of one year.

That would be true, indeed, even on the doctrine of annual probabilities, but in Europe's case the fact that government and people are working hard to surmount the reactionary influences, enduring taxation which would have been unworkable before the war, is the best assurance of ultimate success.
